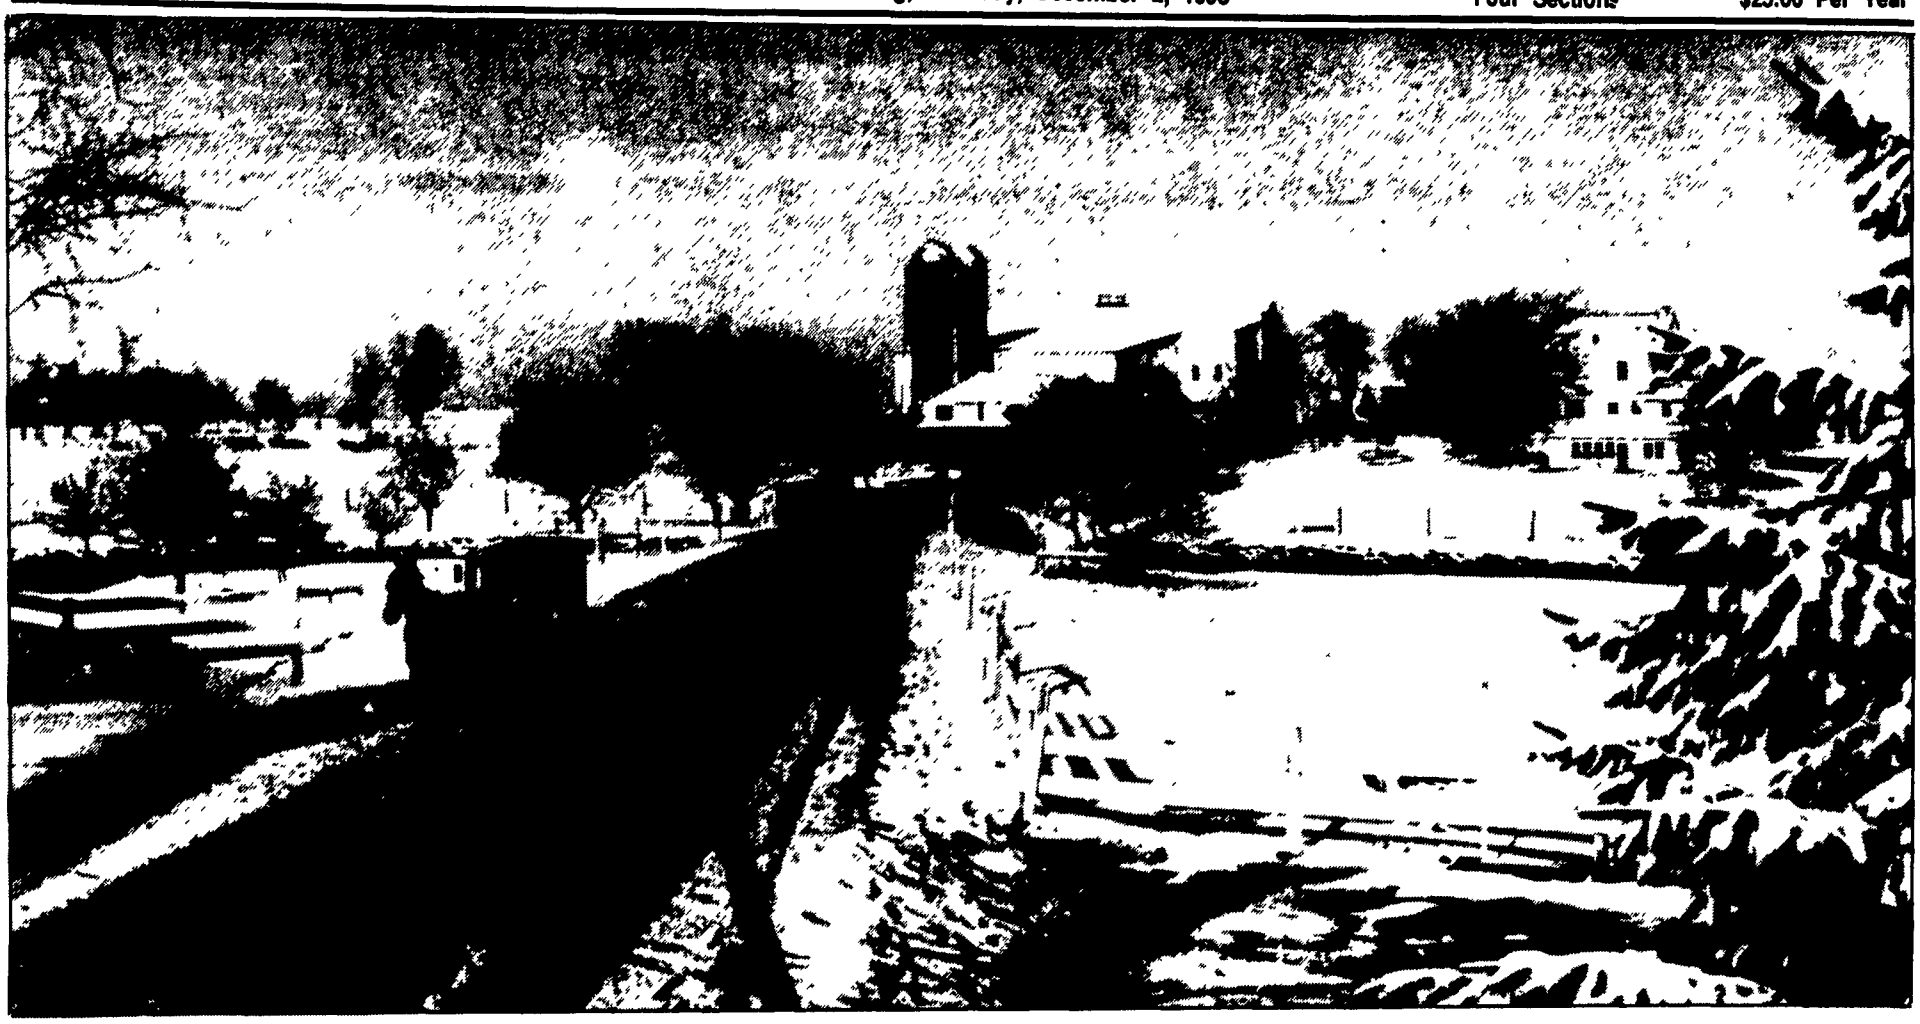
Vol. 41 No. 4 | 60¢ Per Copy | Lancaster Farming, Saturday, December 2, 1995 | Four Sections | $25.00 Per Year



While many parts of the region have had anywhere from one inch to three feet of snow on the ground before this week, southeast Pennsylvania in general and Lancaster County specifically had no snow on the ground to amount to anything until Tuesday night. Even then, to see the beautiful farm scenes, you had to get up early before the sun melted the snow off the trees. Photographers like to use these trees to frame pictures. This Amish farm scene is southwest of New Holland where South Groffdale Road runs between the house and barn between Scenic Road and Musser School Road. For the week ahead the forecaster calls for weather that is warmer and drier than normal. Photo by Everett Newswanger, managing editor.

Chesapeake Bay Executive Council Approves Local Initiative

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.

RESTON, Va. — The six members of the Chesapeake Bay Executive Council met in Reston, Virginia, on Thursday and signed several new agreements on how to best protect and continue to upgrade the quality of the Chesapeake Bay and its basin.

Part of that new agreement is a "directive" that outlines how actions by the Chesapeake Bay Program have "... presented local governments with significant opportunities to contribute to our efforts to protect and restore Bay resources."

In 1987, the Chesapeak Bay Program Executive Council agreed to reduce nutrient flow into the Chesapeake Bay by 40 percent.

For Pennsylvania that goal has been to reduce nitrogen flow by 40 percent and was the main reason Pennsylvania adopted the Nutrient Management Act which currently requires high-density livestock production operations to develop and implement an approved total-operation nutrient management plan.

It also provides for voluntary planning for those under the livestock density threshhold and protections for those who voluntarily plan.

While regulations to implement the Nutrient Management Act are in the process of being finalized, the council acknowledged that its needs the help of local government to achieve the environmental goals it has set.

If the entire effort is successful, residents of the Bay Basin should expect a stronger economic base because of the increase in variety and volume of renewable, commercially important species and conditions.

According to the agreement, affected would be the "1,653 local governments located within Virginia, Maryland, Pennsylvania and the District of Columbia (that) are now and will become increasingly important partners in many aspects of the Bay restoration effort."

The agreement, Local Government Partnership Initiative — Directive 95-1, outlines specific commitments by council members that are designed to increase the amount of local government input into making Bay-improving decisions, and also increase technical and financial assistance from the Bay Program to local

Streambank, Conservation Work Catches Eye Of Neighbors, PACD

BEDMINSTER (Bucks Co.) — Fruit grower Ken Bupp has heard the saying before: "If it ain't broke, don't fix it."

But he believes if something has the potential to be broken, or shows definite signs of strain, you better get in there before the situation turns disastrous.

Years ago, he noticed how, after a heavy rain, a local tributary, which feeds into the Tohickon River and eventually to the Delaware, would overflow and spill tons of water and some soil material onto neighbors' properties.

He knew something had to be done.

So after contacting the county conservation district and working closely with the Soil Conservation Service (now the Natural Resource Conservation Service) and the state fish commission in the early 1990s, Bupp made extensive repairs to the streambank. He also installed crown vetch and netting to stabilize the banks.

Bupp, who was recently honored for his work in water quality and conservation efforts with the statewide 1995 Pennsylvania Association of Conservation Districts (PACD) Award, said the work helped the neighbors with homes that, in the past, were threatened with flooding.

"It's more to their benefit than it was ours, but we went ahead and did that in order to help them out so it wouldn't flood their properties," he said.

Ken Bupp was recently honored for his work in water quality and conservation efforts with the statewide 1995 Pennsylvania Association of Conservation Districts (PACD) Award and the 1994 Conservation Farmer of the Year Award.

National Grain Market

ST. JOSEPH, MO
NOVEMBER 29, 1995

Grain and soybean bids jumped sharply higher. Wheat rebounded on favorable outlook for export demand and reports of dry conditions in winter wheat growing areas. Corn bids turned higher on fund buying and strong wheat trade. Soybean bids were supported by improved export interest and carryover strength from wheat pits. Wheat 1 to 8 cents higher. Corn 1 to 5 cents higher. Sorghum 9 to 13 cents higher. Soybeans 6 to 9 cents higher. Wheat bids climbed out of a two day rut with support stemming from indications Morocco, Egypt, and Sri Lanka may soon seek US wheat. Winter wheat areas of the Plains States are experiencing very dry conditions which also pushed wheat bids upward. Fund buying on the board gave corn bids new life along with ideas export demand may soon pick up. Farmer selling remains light. Overnight export sale from Taiwan and strength from corn and wheat bids, boosted bean bids.

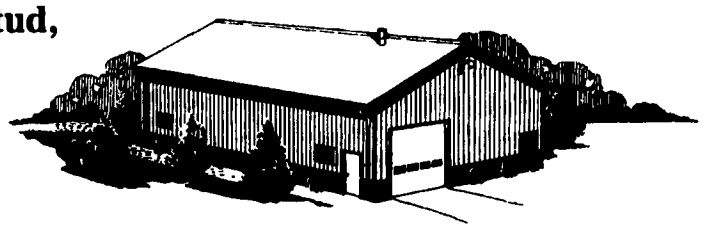
The Building you want.
The Lease you need.

Whether your new farm or commercial building is of pole, timber column, stud, steel or block construction; choose Telmark lease financing.



Telmark has been leasing equipment for over 30 years. Did you know that we've been leasing new buildings for that long too? Consider the features:

- Tax deductibility and accelerated write-offs: Lease payments are income tax deductible over the term of the lease compared to 20-year depreciation of farm buildings and 39-year depreciation of commercial buildings. Could reduce tax liability this year.
- Low upfront costs: Beginning costs may be as little as one monthly lease payment.
- Flexible lease term: Building lease terms start aggressively at five years but may be as long as ten, twelve, or fifteen years.
- Customized payment schedules: Lease payment schedules match your cash flow. Payment options include monthly, quarterly, annually, as well as, skip or specially designed seasonal payments.

How do you start leasing a building from Telmark? Talk with a qualified builder to determine your needs and building cost. And call your Telmark representative:

The OLD FARMER'S THIS WEEK WITH ALMANAC

DECEMBER 4-10, 1995

FULL COLD MOON, DEC. 6.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY, ST. NICK!

Nicholas was the bishop of Myra in Asia Minor during the fourth century. He was known for his compassion and generosity, both to children and maidens. Legend has it that St. Nicholas dropped a purse of gold into the windows of three poor maidens, thus affording them their dowries so they could be married. Out of this came the Dutch custom of laying out the children's wooden shoes on St. Nicholas Eve (Dec. 5). Hay and carrots are stuffed in the shoes for the saint's horse, and a beverage is left for St. Nick — schnapps, traditionally. In the morning, there may be sweets, gold-covered chocolate coins, or one special gift.

God loveth a cheerful giver.

— 2 Corinthians 9 7

TIP OF THE WEEK

☞ Use a plant mister to help keep holiday greenery from drying out and dropping its needles.

CANDIED ORANGE PEEL

fresh orange peel from 1 or more oranges granulated sugar water

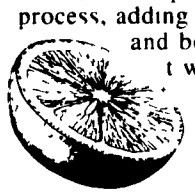
Wash the orange(s), dry, and cut peel into 1/4-inch strips. Place in a heavy saucepan and cover with cold water. Boil. Drain water, then repeat the process, adding water and boiling twice more (This reduces the bitterness.) After the third boiling, measure peel and add the same quantity of sugar and water to form a syrup. Cook until the white of the pulp is translucent Remove peel from syrup and roll in granulated sugar. Let dry overnight, then place in a glass jar. Use candied peel grated in desserts or whole for decorating cakes, or eat it plain as a sweet Keeps well, and makes an attractive gift



The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER PROVERBS

Foul weather is at hand when the guinea hen calls "come back," or the peacock squalls, or the cock is on the fence less than usual.

A snow year, a rich year.

Year of snow, crops will grow.

Under water, famine. Under snow, bread.

OPINION

When I Was A Kid!

When I was a kid
I used to think,
Coke was something
Made to drink.

Pot wasn't something
Puffed into your head,
We had a pot on the stove
And one under the bed.

And crack was found
In 'most every plate.
Speed was put on
When we were late.

Words like "getting a fix"
Were never spoken,
When we heard "fix"
Something was broken.

When we did wrong
Mom took no excuse,
We were punished with love
Now, it's child abuse.

I head of a crash on Wall Street
When I was only six
I thought somewhere a wall fell down
And the street was full of bricks.

After that I think we were poor
But we kids didn't know it
No one ever said "You're poor."
And our parents didn't show it.

For video, we counted the stars
For audio, we sang a few bars
We had two dishwashers, my sister and me
We never heard of allowance,
We did it for free.

We played hopscotch
With a piece of slate
And go down the street
On just one skate.

When we rode in our wagon
We felt every bump
It was made from old "stuff"
My brother found at the dump.

Sometimes I wish I could go back
The old times I could save
And give up all the modern things
Except my microwave!

Lancaster County Agricultural Agent

To Recruit Farm Labor

Alan Strock, extension farm management agent, reminds us recruiting farm labor is becoming more important.

Many farmers are finding that recruiting requires more time and effort. Recruitment is the process of searching for qualified candidates for a job and getting them interested enough to apply.

Recruiting is not simply getting numbers of people to fill out job applications. Instead it is recruiting qualified and quality people who will be an asset to the farm.

They need to bring complementary skills and experiences to the farm business's existing labor pool. The primary objective of the process should be to create a sufficient pool of qualified candidates from which to choose the best one to fill the job.

The key is getting enough applicants of the type you are looking for. It is in your best interest to be clear about what you want and reflect it in your recruiting efforts. Also, be sure to emphasize the advantages of working on your farm.

To Write Good Want Ads

The want ads approach to creating a sufficient pool of qualified candidates for a job has several advantages, according to Alan Strock, extension farm management agent. It is quick, relatively inexpensive and it provides a way to reach a potentially large audience.

But newspaper ads may also have some drawbacks. Many farmers complain that these ads bring them many applicants, but none they would want to hire.

Perhaps the answer to this problem is how the ad is written. Be very specific in the qualifications you are looking for in the future employee. Be very specific in the job duties, salary range, and fringe benefits that the future employee will perform and earn.

Also in the ad, emphasize the advantages of working on the farm — that is, working outside, working flexible hours, working with animals and working in a neat, clean, modern facility that is family owned.

To Understand Forage Test Variations

A question which is frequently asked by many livestock feeders is how accurate are the lab analyses of my feed?

Often a farmer will submit multiple samples of the same feed to different labs for analysis and get different results from each lab.

According to Dr. Marvin Hall, Penn State agronomist, the accuracy of forage analysis is limited by the weakest link in the analytical procedure, which is sample collection. Research has shown that the highest level of accuracy a grower may expect due to testing procedure is plus or minus 1.58 units of crude protein, 2.48 units of acid detergent fiber, and 4.25 units of neutral detergent fiber.

With this in mind, a sample which is split and sent to three labs which report the crude protein in the sample as: Lab 1=18.3, Lab 2= 19.4 and Lab 3=18.7 is well within the normal deviation due to sampling procedure.

So why do labs report different quality when sent the same sample?

More than likely the samples were not really the same. Accuracy of sample collection is the major cause of different test results.

To help improve accuracy, take multiple samples and mix them extremely well before taking a sub sample for analysis.

Feather Prof.'s Footnote: "The effort to reach beyond our grasp is what makes success a reality."

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

MORE TO FOLLOW
December 3, 1995

Background Scripture:
Isaiah 40 1-11
Devotional Reading:
II Corinthians 7 2-7

When life is going well for us, we tend to forget that suffering and sorrow are also part of the human experience—for all of us. Seasons of prosperity and well-being are followed or even interrupted by seasons of pain and suffering. For some of us, it is when we are in the midst of such a season that we are most likely to encounter and recognize the reality of God and His grace.

This is the background to Isaiah 40:1-11. Fifty years before these words were first spoken, the people of Judah had been carried off ito captivity by the Assyrians. Jerusalem and the kingdom were left destitute and in ruins. Those who survived the forced march were compelled to start life all over again in a strange land.

In the midst of this suffering and despair Isaiah brings a new message: "Comfort, comfort my people, says our God. Speak tenderly to Jerusalem and cry to her that her warfare is ended, that her iniquity is pardoned..." (40:1,2). It is a wonderful message of comfort that the prophet brings.

GOOD NEWS!

But after the message of comfort there is also one of challenge: "In the wilderness prepare the way of the Lord..." God is offering redemption, but if they are to receive it they must respond to the good news of his grace. If they do, then "the glory of the Lord shall be revealed and all. flesh see it together..." (40:5).

The message of Isaiah 40 was written to a particular people at a particular time and place. But early Christians saw in it a prophecy of the Good News of Jesus Christ. So, to all of us, whether as nations or individuals, when we are hurting and despairing, this message is still relevant to our situations. That is why Isaiah 40:1-11 is read every year in Advent. As Advent is symbolic of the dark night of our human yearning for redemption, so the prophecy of Isaiah is linked with the incarnation of God's grace in the birth of Jesus Christ.

In the midst of whatever brokenness that has overcome us we are comforted with is promise of redemption, that his light will shine and prevail in our darkness, whatever it may be: personal or family crisises, community strife, national danger. There is no misfortune or just desserts that we cannot see through if we are willing to accept the grace of God. As Eugene O'Neill has one of his characters say, "Man is born broken. He lives by mending. The grace of God is his glue!"

GLUE TO MEND

When we have fallen apart or been run over by adversity, the grace of God is the glue that fixes our brokenness. What a promise to remember whenever we are about to give up! God comes to us ultimately as a shepherd who tenderly carries his lost sheep. This is a promise that endures when all else—including other people—fails.

But, if we get the message, we need also to give the message. As the people of Judah were redeemed they were expected to pass on that message: "Get you up to a high mountain. O Zion, herald of good tidings; lfit up your voice with strength.." (40:9). Advent comes upon us with the good new of God's grace and a call for us to share the good news: "Comfort, comfort my people."

An affluent man sent a sum of money to another man who had fallen on hard times. With the money was a simple note: "This is yours. Use it wisely. There is more to follow." Later, the destitute man got another envelope, more money, and a note that said, "More to follow." Again and again the money arrived with the same assurance. Dwight Moody comments on the story, saying, "So it is with the wonderful grace of God. There is always 'more to follow.'"

SUZUKI
The Ride You've Been Waiting For.

With approved credit. Restrictions apply. See dealer for details. Offer ends 1/31/96. The Suzuki QuadSport 80 may be used only by those aged 12 and older. Adults must always supervise riders under the age of 16. All other Suzuki ATVs may be used only by those aged 16 and older. Suzuki highly recommends that all ATV riders take a training course. We'll even pay for it. For safety and training course information, see your dealer or call the SVIA at 1-800 852 5344. ATVs can be hazardous to operate. For your safety, always wear a helmet, eye protection and protective clothing. Never ride on paved surfaces or public roads. Never carry passengers or engage in stunt riding. Riding and alcohol or other drugs don't mix. Avoid excessive speeds. Be extra careful on difficult terrain. Along with concerned conservationists everywhere, Suzuki urges you to "TREAD LIGHTLY" on public and private land. Preserve your future riding opportunities by showing respect for the environment, local laws, and the rights of others when you ride.

'Most years, I get five cuttings with Attainer That's 9 to 10 tons of hay per acre, so I make twice as much on alfalfa as any other crop Attainer doesn't harden down as fast as other varieties, so you have a longer time to cut it in its most digestible form With Attainer, my cutting time is more flexible than other varieties

"I like to grow alfalfa The day I need to cut it, I'm there You won't get five cuttings a year if you're not I do what it needs when it needs it And apparently it works I can sell my alfalfa anytime People want to buy it because they say their cows milk well on it "

In field trials, Attainer produced 16,200 lbs of milk/acre Its large harvest window guarantees that you'll receive maximum feed value Plus Attainer is highly resistant to all major alfalfa diseases Attainer is just one of the alfalfas in our top producing lineup — a lineup that now includes W-L alfalfas

Dairy MAP Scheduled For Tri-County Region

DAUPHIN (Dauphin Co.)—Dairy producers from Dauphin, Lebanon, and Schuylkill counties will be able to participate locally in 1996 in one of three Dairy-MAP workshops to be held in Elizabethville, Lebanon, and Pottsville.

Dairy-MAP is an abbreviation for a program developed by Penn State Faculty and county agents to teach sound business management practices to dairymen, their families, and their farming partners.

Dairy MAP stands for Dairy Management and Profitability. The workshops involve two-day workshops that are designed to address specific dairy management issues.

At workshops, teams of county agents present ideas and facilitate discussion for small groups of farmers. In these small groups, producers will then work at solving problems as a group.

This type of educational process helps attendees work toward solving broad problems and then work toward answers for their own unique situation.

This first unit of Dairy-MAP is called "Managing for Success." It emphasizes five business components: planning, organizing, staffing, directing, and controlling. Dairymen will learn how to set goals and how to organize a framework of activities and duties to meet these goals.

The program also assists dairymen in striving to optimize efficiency through farm records. The program will not correct farm production problems; however, it will help producers to pinpoint the problem.

Three Dairy-MAP workshops will be held in 1996 in the Dauphin, Lebanon, and Schuylkill County region. Dairymen, their family, partner, and employees are invited to attend any workshop that is convenient. However, participation is limited to 20 individuals at each county workshops are listed for your convenience.

Pre-registration is required for all workshops. For additional information and to register contact the Extension office listed for that location: Schuylkill County Workshop, Date: Mondays, January 22 & 29, 1996, Location: Schuylkill County Ag Center, 1202 Ag Center Drive, Pottsville, Contact: Al Shoener (717) 622-4225. Dauphin County Workshop, Date: Tuesday, January 23 & Thursday, February 1, 1996, Location: Trinity United Methodist Church, Elizabethville, 25 E. Main St., Elizabethville, Contact: Paul H. Craig (717) 921-8803. Lebanon County Workshop, Date: Wednesdays, January 24 & 31, 1996, Location: Lebanon County Ag Center, 2120 Cornwall Rd., Lebanon, Contact: Galen Lehman (717) 270-4391.

All workshops have a registration period at 9:30 a.m., program will begin at 9:45 a.m., and conclude promptly at 3 p.m.

The workshop is sponsored by Penn State Cooperative Extension in Dauphin, Lebanon, and Schuylkill Counties, and will be held at the locations and times listed above. (Penn State is an affirmative action, equal opportunity university, and all residents of Dauphin County regardless of race, color, sex, national origin, sexual orientation, age, or disability, are encouraged to attend. The meeting room is accessible to a person with a physical disability.)

MMI Reports Earnings

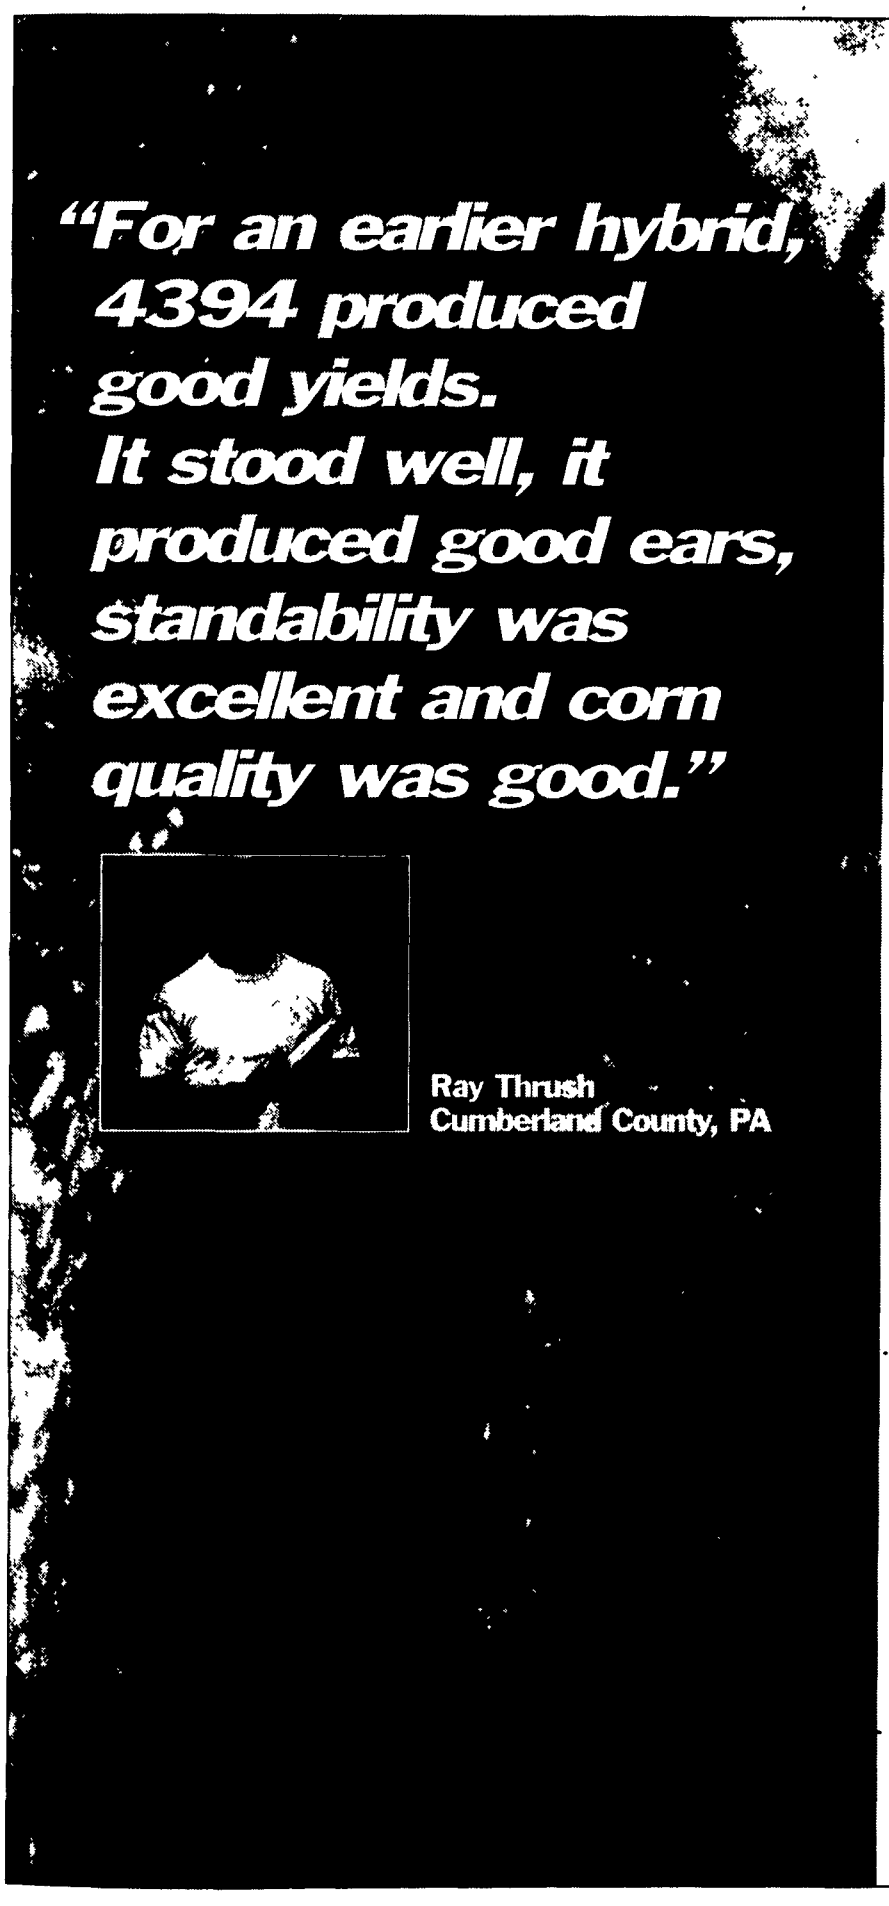
STRONGSVILLE, Ohio — With 7.1 billion pounds of milk flowing off the farm and into homes and restaurants in the form of various dairy products, Milk Marketing Inc. (MMI) saw earnings and revenues increase during the 1995 fiscal year, Executive Vice President and CEO Don Schriver reported during the co-op's annual meeting Nov. 20-21 in Pittsburgh.

With milk volume up 340 million pounds, the farmer-owned dairy cooperative and food company saw revenues increase $48 million to over $1 billion.

Earnings jumped from $3.9 million in fiscal 1994 to $5.5 million. MMI is headquartered in Strongsville, Ohio and owned by some 9,000 farm families in 11 states.

"This year was a tough one for members," Schriver said. "Spring rain prevented planting for some, summer heat stymied production for others. In spite of that, MMI's 1995 fiscal year held some amazing achievements."

Even though the average pay price farmers received for their milk dropped from $13.52 per hundred pounds in 1994 to $12.81 per hundredweight, MMI was able to pay its members an extra $8.5 million in cash premiums, Schriver told some 500 delegates and farmers. On top of that, he said, MMI returned $6.7 million in equity contributions to farmers, plus the co-op shared another $2.2 million in earnings with members.



"For an earlier hybrid, 4394 produced good yields. It stood well, it produced good ears, standability was excellent and corn quality was good."
Ray Thrush
Cumberland County, PA

"The corn is very eye-appealing We've been planting Funk's for seven years and the product has done well for us When they're out in the field, the Funk's products speak for themselves"

Ray's results speak for themselves as well Using 4394, he won the Pennsylvania Five-acre Corn Club competition in Cumberland County, with a yield of 157 3 Bu/A

And Ray isn't the only one to get excellent results with 4394 In Penn State's 1994 New Entry trial, it recorded a 19 Bu/A yield advantage over the mean And it won the Georgetown, DE irrigated trials with a two-year average of 202 Bu/A Consistently placing in the top 10% of university trials, it is an excellent dual-purpose hybrid that responds well in low and medium populations

National Belgian Hitch Coming To New Holland, Points West

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.)—The first six-horse hitch to ever walk across the United States, from Maine to California, will be making a pre-Christmas visit to New Holland, today and Sunday, Dec. 2-3.

The hitch will be headquartered at the New Holland Sales Stables on Fulton Street, two blocks south of Hwy. 23. To spread a little Christmas cheer, driver David Helmuth and his wife, Vikki, plan to have the six champion Belgians "all decked out" with bells, garland and ribbons.

"Folks in this area have been urging us to come for a visit for a long time, and since we have an opening in our schedule, we decided to make a pre-Christmas swing through your part of the country," said Helmuth.

After the Dec. 2-3 appearance in New Holland, the team will head to Washington, Pa. on Dec. 5-6, and then to Zanesville, Ohio on Dec. 7-8.

The hitch is owned by Country and Reminisce, two of nine magazines published by Reiman Publications of Greendale, Wisconsin. The full-color, ad-free magazines have more than 11 million subscribers across the U.S. and Canada.

Will Come Bearing Gifts

"We're going to be bringing each subscriber a Christmas gift, too—a free cookbook!" Helmuth pointed out. "We'll hand them out, one per subscriber family, to those who come out to see us in New Holland.

"We'll also be bringing along a lot of our company's other books, which are being phased out, and will be offering them at half-price. So some people may want to come out to say 'hi' and do some bargain Christmas shopping at the same time.

"What's more, we're giving 5% of all the sales proceeds to the New Holland Chamber of Commerce to apply to the project of their choice," Helmuth emphasized. "That way we're sort of giving a gift to the whole town."

The giant Belgians, which weigh over a ton each, have some enthusiastic fans among subscribers who closely followed their walk across America. A 1-hour video, narrated by Willard Scott, and a book, titled The Mane Event, have also been produced about the hitch's 3,800-mile trip.

As a result, many of the magazine's subscribers have come to know each horse by name and regard them as their horses. The editors often refer to them as "The only six-horse hitch in the world co-owned by over 11 million people!"

These "owners" sometimes drive hundreds of miles to see, meet and pet these giant steeds. This is likely to be the case with the hitch's visit to New Holland next week, since the appearance has been widely announced.

Pulling for Seniors

The team's 16-month cross-country walk along rural roads through 18 states was aimed at honoring senior citizens. The crew stopped at senior centers all along the route, giving rides to more than 50,000 people—mostly seniors—in the hitch's custom-made red wagon, adding meaning to the wagon's bold slogan, "We're Pulling for Seniors!"

This six-hitch Belgian horse team that drove across the country from Maine to California in 1993-94 is driven by David and Vikki Helmuth, Nasha, Iowa. The team will be housed at New Holland Sales Stables this weekend and then move on to Washington, Pennsylvania, and Zanesville, Ohio.

To make it an official "ocean-to-ocean" junket, Helmuth trotted the team through the Atlantic surf off the East Coast before leaving Kennebunkport, Maine and heading west, way west, to San Diego, where the team eventually splashed in the Pacific surf.

In all, the trip covered more than 3,800 miles, and the horses walked every step, averaging about 10 miles a day and resting on Sunday.

In the time since the trip was completed, the hitch—often called "America's team"—has made numerous appearances at fairs, festivals, rodeos and other events across the U.S. The visit to New Holland is the first appearance in Pennsylvania since the hitch crossed through the state's northwest corner on its cross-country trek.

During that April 1993 to August 1994 trip, the Helmuths and six crew members overcame several hazards, such as being awakened at 4 a.m. by the tremors of the 1994 California earthquake

(the horses felt it first!), surviving a brief but hair-raising runaway in New Mexico, when a dog chased a pet rabbit under the team during a local parade, being struck by 85-mph tornado-like winds at a Kansas campsite, and narrowly dodging several rattlesnakes that struck at the horses along a rural road in Colorado.

But mostly, the Helmuths say, they experienced "miles of smiles."

Thousands Came to Route

"The trip proved to be a great experience not only for the crew, but for the many subscribers to our company's magazines," says publisher Roy Reiman. "They feel a real sense of ownership with this hitch, and they thronged to the pre-set route all across the country.

"You could tell they were pleased and proud of their horses, and it gave us a chance to 'give something back' to them for their support and do something for thousands of senior citizens at senior centers and nursing homes at the same time. When you saw what it meant to people—especially seniors—to meet and pet this team, it made your heart swell."

The horses are now headquarted at Paradise Acres Farm near Nashua, Iowa—a town already famous for the Little Brown Church in the Vale. The farm is owned by the Helmuths; David and Vikki were married during the cross-country trip at Sugarcreek, Ohio on August 14, 1993.

During their appearance in New Holland the Helmuths will chat with the crowd about their one-of-a-kind honeymoon trip (how many newlyweds take a 16-month, 3,800-mile trip on a wagon looking over the backs of six Belgians?), answer questions about the horses and autograph copies of the book and video covering the trip.

Souvenir items relating to the hitch are available at each appearance, with part of the profits going to benefit seniors. As an example, the sales to date have funded a free subscription of Reminisce magazine to more than 8,000 senior centers in the U.S. Each issue sent to these centers is accompanied by a "lesson plan" to help the activity director conduct a series of "Reminisce Hours" for the residents.

Parade Through Town?

"We're looking forward to seeing a lot of folks in New Holland," says Helmuth. "It'll give subscribers in the area a chance to see their hitch, and give us a chance to hand each subscriber family a Christmas gift of a free cookbook."

Two notes regarding this gift: (1) to qualify for the free book, subscribers are advised to bring a mailing label or a recent issue of any of the company's magazines to verify their subscription. (2) Only one book will be given to each subscriber family, even if the family subscribes to more than one of the company's magazines.

The time-slot for viewing the horses and visiting the "hitch book mobile" for the free book and bargain books is from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on both Saturday and Sunday, Dec. 2 & 3.

If the weather and facilities permit, Helmuth and his crew will hitch up the team and give a few folks a ride in the custom-made wagon they pulled across the country.

He is also checking with local officials to see if they'll let him parade the team through downtown New Holland sometime during their visit here.

The new year will start out with a great dairy program on Thursday, Jan. 4, at the Oxford Fire Hall.

The focus this year will be on three topics that are very important to dairy farmers—nutrient management, reproduction management, and intensive grazing.

The day will begin at 10 a.m. with a discussion on best management practices for a good nutrient management program.

Jerry Martin, project assistant for the Pequea-Mill Creek Project in Lancaster County, will address issues such as barnyard runoff, stream bank protection, and clean water concerns. These are topics that are important not only to the environment, but to a farm family's well-being.

Dr. Michael O'Connor, Penn State Dairy Extension specialist, will bring dairy farmers up-to-date on the latest technology in dairy reproduction management. He is to focus on reproductive techniques to get high producing cows bred.

As the dairy cows of today reach higher production, there is a constant battle to get them bred back in a reasonable amount of time. Although extended lactations may look good for an individual cow's record, the profitability of the herd, and the farm is penalized.

Axel Linde and Millie Widmann from Lindenhof Farm between Oxford and Kirkwood will describe their highly successful intensive grazing program. The farm has had one of the top Guernsey herds in Pennsylvania for several years, and their grazing program has been honed to perfection.

The brother and sister team are carrying on the fine grazing tradition established by their father. They will talk about their pasture layout and how they manage their system under normal conditions as well as in times of drought and wet weather.

The noon meal will be a hot dinner buffet with all you can eat for $5. This charge is only one-third of the total cost, but it can be offered at this price because of the fine support from a variety of dairy-related businesses that will have exhibits at the event.

Those attending are encouraged to visit the displays before the meeting and following the noon meal.

The new Pennsylvania Nutrient Management Law is an issue of concern for all dairy operators.

Questions—such as How will it affect me? Do I need a plan? When and where can I spread manure?—will be answered during a session on the ramifications of the law following dinner.

Dan Greig, manager, Chester County Conservation District, and Walter Wurster, Chester County Extension Agent, will explain the program and answer questions.

Chester County Dairy Milk Lines

The regulations that have been developed are farmer-friendly and should not be a burden on a dairy operation. The end result will be a better environment, cleaner water, and a wiser and more profitable use of manure on the farm.

The day-long program will conclude with a panel that is to include two farmers and one veterinarian, with Dr. O'Connor as the moderator, discussing reproduction management down on the farm.

Questions on heat detection, record keeping, treatment of problem breeders, are just a few of the topics that will be covered. There will be ample time for questions.

Start the new year off on a positive note and come to Chester County Dairy Day at the Oxford Fire Hall.

Reservations are required. To reserve your place or for more information, contact Walter Wurster, Chester County Cooperative Extension, at (610) 696-3500, no later than Wednesday, Dec. 27.

Young Farmer News

What Is The Young Farmer Association All About?

For many organizations, the logo has lots of meaning, and the same is true of the logo of the Pennsylvania Young Farmers Association Inc. (PYFA).

It is located at the top of this column.

The PYFA emblem background illustrates that the PYFA is a state organization within the Keystone State.

The silhouetted figures, standing on books of knowledge, point to the young-adult farmer's belief in sound education, pride in a well-kept farmstead, efficient production and conservation of soil and water in the contoured fields, and hope for a bright tomorrow as indicated by the rising sun.

The Organization

The PYFA is divided into seven regions across the state to facilitate travel and time of the officers and advisory committee members, who in turn give service and counsel to local chapters within their respective regions.

The regional divisions provide equal leadership opportunities throughout the state.

Region 1 comprises Bradford, Susquehanna, Tioga, Wayne, Pike, Sullivan, Wyoming, Lackawanna, Luzerne, Monroe, Carbon and Northampton counties.

Region 2 includes Chester, Delaware, Lancaster, and York counties. Specific chapters in Region 2 are Ephrata, Manheim, Solanco, Dover, Kennard Dale, and Red Lion.

Region 3 includes Centre, Clearfield, Snyder, Union, Northumberland, Columbia, Montour, Lycoming, Clinton, Mifflin and Juniata counties. Chapters in Region 3 are Penns Valley, State College, Selinsgrove, Middleburg, West Snyder, Lewisburg, Mifflinburg, and Line Mountain.

In Region 4 are Adams, Franklin, Fulton, Bedford, Blair, Cambria, Huntingdon, Cumberland, and Perry counties. Chapters are Bermudian Springs, Biglerville, Gettysburg, Chambersburg, Waynesboro, Southern Huntingdon, Shippensburg, and Greenwood.

Region 5 includes Lawrence, Beaver, Butler, Allegheny, Washington, Greene, Somerset, Fayette, Westmoreland, and Indiana counties. Chapters include Berlin, Brothersvalley, Meyersdale, Rockwood, and Derry.

Region 6 has Erie, Crawford, Mercer, Venango, Armstrong, Clarion, Jefferson, Warren, Forest, Elk, Potter, Cameron, and McKean counties. The Elderton Chapter is within Region 6.

In Region 7 are Dauphin, Schuylkill, Bucks, Montgomery, Lebanon, Berks, and Philadelphia counties. Chapters include Lower Dauphin, Blue Mountain, Upper Perkiomen, Annville-Cleona, Cedar Crest, Northern Lebanon, Kutztown, and Tulpehocken.

The official colors for the PYFA are royal blue and corn gold, the same as the FFA.

We are a stepping stone for agricultural education. Some FFA students advance to college, others continue at home with PYFA as a source of education about advanced technology in farming and agribusiness.

A farmer must be knowledgeable in all aspects of technology, from purchasing to marketing, veterinarian to mechanic, cropping to computers, etc. ... there is not one day goes by that we as farmers don't use some of these technologies.

The right decision can keep us in the black ink.

Weather is a big factor that we have no control of, but with up-to-date weather news available 24-hours in many areas, we can make decisions that can mean the difference between, for example, making hay valued at $150 per ton or $40 per ton.

The better the information, the better the chance of making a wise and successful decision.

PYFA History

1955 marked the beginning of the effective use of a local Young Farmers Association to provide improved instruction, increase leadership development of members, and better relations in each community.

But the start of the program goes back before then.

In October 1954 the State Council on Education approved "on-farm instruction" of young-adult farmers as a regular part of the program in vocational agriculture.

As teachers systematically have visited more people on an on-farm basis, the number and quality of short courses taught has increased.

In the first 20 years of vocational agriculture education in Pennsylvania, most teachers conducted adult farmers' night classes, but without on-farm instruction.

From 1937 to 1941, special emphasis on classes for young farmers resulted from the Great Depression and its effect on the general unemployment of several million young men in rural areas.

World War II OSYA classes were largely devoted to the reconditioning of used farm implements. Soon after the war, the veterans' agricultural training program enrolled so many men, that special instructors were added to teach the classes and provide on-the-job training.

It was in 1949 that the Pennsylvania Young Farmers Association, organized through the veterans' classes on a county unit basis, held its first annual meeting at the state Farm Show.

As their individual entitlements to the subsidized training program expired, most of the veterans discontinued their membership. The total adult program became the responsibility of the regularly employed teachers of agriculture.

Regional leadership training meetings were started in 1955. The next year, six regional vice presidents were elected to supervise and promote activities of local associations. In 1957, the State Outstanding Young Farmer awards were established.

As an integral part of the public school program in vocational agriculture in Pennsylvania, young-adult farmer classes increased to an all-time high in 1969.

In 1969, there were 92 schools offering systematic instruction to 3,600 men. Fifty of those 92 schools in that year were state-affiliated local units of the PYFA.

In 1960, the annual state convention was changed to the Wednesday following Thanksgiving Day and was held at The Pennsylvania State University. The change resulted in a very large increase in attendance of members and wives.

The success of the 1961 convention may be credited largely to the planning efforts of the special convention committee, to the effective leadership of the executive committee, to better publicity provided by timely issues of the Young Farmer magazine, and certainly to the stronger local Young Farmer associations across the state.

The annual convention is currently held in February.

Looking to the future, the YFA can very well serve as a medium for public opinion, which will result in the constant improvement and upgrading of young-adult farmer instruction through the public school system.

The Young Farmers Association, through participation, can be an excellent means of providing training to men and women in agriculture of all ages, who can become a source of directors and officers for new and existing farm organizations and agricultural businesses.

1996 Convention

The 36th PYFA winter convention is scheduled to be held Feb. 6-8 at the Somerset Ramada Inn (Exit 10 off of the Pa. Turnpike).

Three chapters — Berlin Brothersvalley, Meyersdale, and Rockwood — are serving as hosts for the convention.

Tour are scheduled to be held Feb. 6 and Feb. 8, while Feb. 7 has been reserved as the day for the annual business meeting and educational workshops.

A breakdown of the five meals over the three days and a Wednesday Ladies Luncheon, Tour and Workshop is included on a registration form.

There is a discount for early registration fees which cover the costs of the five meals. The Ladies' Luncheon, Tour and Workshop is $15.

To receive the $2 per event early registration discount, make reservations by Jan. 12. Regular registration is due by Feb. 2.

Those registering should also make note to indicate in the appropriate place on the form which tour(s) are being requested.

All who go on the tours should know ahead of time that they will be required to ride a bus (provided free).

To make a reservation at the Ramada, call (814) 443-4646.

Other local motels (all 814-area code) include the Holiday Inn at 445-9611, Knight's Inn at 445-8933, Days Inn at 445-9200, Super 8 Motel at 445-8788, the Economy Inn at 445-4144, or the Bayberry Inn Bed & Breakfast at 445-8471. (Turn to Page A27)

Farmers' Markets On Turnpike

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.)—Agriculture Secretary Charles C. Brosius recently announced that farmers interested in operating stands at two new farmers' markets on the Pennsylvania Turnpike during the 1996 growing season should contact the department.

Brosius noted that the farmers' markets would be located at the New Stanton (Westmoreland County) and the Valley Forge (Chester County) service plazas.

"The pilot program establishing turnpike farmers markets at the Sideling Hill and Allentown Service Plazas was extremely successful," Brosius said. "The two new locations will give more local farmers an opportunity to sell their products, and travelers will have additional opportunities to enjoy the great taste of Pennsylvania products."

Vendors are to be producer-only vendors who grow not less than 50 percent of their farm products in Pennsylvania.

Farmers interested in setting up market stands at the New Stanton or Valley Forge service plazas should contact Sharon Fulginiti, Bureau of Market Development, 2301 North Cameron Street, Harrisburg, PA 17110-9408. The telephone number is (717) 787-5086.

These buyers will get a percentage of the tobacco according to the amount they bought over 3-5 year average at auction. Tobacco will be divided out as such.

Remember, there is only 100% of the tobacco offered. What will the buyer do to get more tobacco?
1 - raise the price at auction, or
2 - buy on the farm
If the buyer buys on the farm he will tell the farmer that there's no commission to warehouse and that his price will be the same as at the auction. But, what will the on-farm buyer pay for low grade? If the buyer docks you on a 800 lb. skid - it could pay the commission for your whole crop selling at auction.

We like all buyers to buy at auction - we need your tobacco. We need a full warehouse first sale
Please color grade

- Put ground leaves in one grade

Vital Message Needs Exposure

PITTSBURGH—Extending greetings from Gov. Tom Ridge, Agriculture Secretary Charles Brosius, who spoke at Milk Marketing Inc.'s annual banquet Nov. 20, officially welcomed MMI delegates and leaders to Pennsylvania.

In the face of so many struggling dairy farmers around the state, Brosius said it was "exciting to see the opportunities you're taking advantage of"—from the unification of MMI and Eastern Milk Producers to innovative product development.

Agriculture is still the number one industry in Pennsylvania, he said, with dairying leading the list.

The challenges facing dairy farmers are such that "you have to be the very best manager you can be," he said. "But no matter how sharp we are...we just can't control or predict everything." That's where cooperatives can make all the difference, he said. "I've been a cooperative supporter all my life. I recognize the historical significance of farmers banding together to do collectively what we can't do for ourselves..."

He added: "But we must be willing to embrace new ideas...to change...MMI is doing just that..."

"This new partnership is good for you as a co-op, and for the industry," he said, referring to the MMI-Eastern Milk merger.

Praising the co-op's interest in innovative products and new opportunities, Brosius said: "Your cooperative leadership has the vision to position you in the world market order."

Brosius also said it was appropriate to recognize American farmers for producing a safe, abundant and reasonably priced food supply. "It's time to go out and tell legislators" that message, he said.

At the Annual Business Meeting the following morning, MMI president and board chair Herman Brubaker also told farmers it was imperative to get the word out to legislators and the public.

"We have been riding a tidal wave," he said, referring to "the dramatic change in public perception" of farm programs. "Programs we've had for the past 60 years are being challenged...Federal orders. Export incentives. Price supports. Throughout all this food is not even an issue."

For the past six months, he said, MMI and other dairy cooperatives have been fighting "total deregulation;" that is, the effort to eliminate the federal order system. "The charge of total deregulation is being led by a few educators and some politicians, processors and dairy producers who have convinced the uninformed public that the nation—its farmers and its consumers—will be better off without dairy programs. That's regionalism at best. It's also farmers who have forgotten their cooperative history lesson;" namely, farmers individually may not have the power to craft their own futures, "but, together, they have all of the power and resources at their disposal—if they would just use them."

Noting that the dairy industry, with the help of the northeast congressional delegation, stood in the way of the budget reconciliation process for nearly a month and "refused to concede on the issue of eliminating market orders," Brubaker said the "win" is only temporary. The attacks will continue, he warned.

"What we're really dealing with is a commonly held public perception that agriculture programs in general and dairy in particular are: 1) out of date; 2) not relevant to today's marketplace; 3) unfair to consumers; 4) too expensive to maintain, and 5) government assistance to a privileged few."

He quoted President Harry Truman, who, when asked why people call him "Give 'em hell, Harry", said: "I don't give them hell, I just tell them the truth and, to them, it feels like hell."

"That's what we've been doing, and we can't let up," he said. "Dairy farmers, through their co-ops, absolutely held back the frontal attack...Dairy cooperatives are as important today as any time in history."

Public support for co-ops has faded, Brubaker said. Some members of Congress think co-ops don't represent farmers anymore, and some individual farmers regard cooperatives as just another buyer of milk, he said, noting: "Something is wrong! When the benefits of cooperatives become lost or taken for granted, we open the door for the kinds of attacks and opinions that we are facing."

Calling for a dose of "co-op fever," the MMI board chairman recounted benefits MMI provides, such as market security, a merger propelling MMI into third spot in the nation, its Farmer Dairy Foods manufacturing arm that is the 12th largest dairy processing firm in the U.S., and paying farmers an extra $4.1 million in earnings in 18 months.

"We are headed for a world without a support price," Brubaker said. "We are headed for a world that is unregulated—no controls, no mechanisms—the free market that people refer to. We are in, not headed for, a struggle with the buyers in the market to control the pricing function. We're in a marketplace where the purchasing power is amassing in larger and larger organizations. We are in a world with no international borders."

He exhorted: "Now is not the time for us to walk away from what we've built...Now is the time to fight for the cooperative rights we gained in the 1920s (through the Copper Volstead Act)."

"Co-op fever. MMI fever. Catch it. Preach it. Support it...Together we are creating the future!"

NAAB Honors Chichester

PLAIN CITY, Ohio — Richard Chichester, general manager of Select Sires Inc. is the recipient of the 1995 NAAB Distinguished Service Award. The Plain City, Ohio resident was recently honored at the 49th Annual National Association of Animal Breeders Convention.

Select Sires has experienced success under the leadership of Chichester, according to its news release.

Chichester said, "Our Board of Directors and committees must never lose sight of the fact that they are elected to serve farmers and represent their best interests. All of us, directors, committeemen and employees are accountable for our judgments and actions. Let us never fail to be responsive."

Since Chichester accepted the manager's post in August 1973, Select has tripled its sales volume. In 1990 the position was strengthened as the federation marketed a record-setting five million units, a feat the organization surpassed in 1993 and 1994.

Select Sires is a federation of 11 farmer-owned and controlled cooperatives, serving the largest number of co-op members in the U.S. The federation's basic objective is to supply livestock breeders with America's best genetics.

Rhea Seminar Examines Industry's Future

BIRD IN HAND (Lancaster Co.) — The National Rhea Seminar board of directors met recently here at the Plain and Fancy Restaurant.

Approximately 60 people attended the meeting, including breeders and prospective breeders.

Speakers at the meeting included John Poehling, president of the national association, who spoke on the future of the rhea industry. The USDA recently approved rhea products.

Cecil Ward, vice president of the national association from Tennessee, spoke on the marketing aspects of the rhea, including how to market the eggshells and other products, including rhea oil, meat, and leather.

Ken Hoyt, board member from Oklahoma, discussed the importance of developing and maintaining the best possible herd and his theories on genetics and raising big, healthy birds for processing. Hoyt has his own cosmetic line with rhea oil and leather goods. He also sells his own brand of rhea jerky sticks, summer sausage, and ham.

Donna Smith discussed processing in Pennsylvania. Smith is from Sharon and is now processing birds. She also is selling the meat and is involved in marketing to grocery stores and restaurants.

Wayne Waggoner from Biglerville discussed how to promote your own birds and products and the importance of supporting the business by using the products and joining an organization.

Several area vendors were also present at the show. Donations for the raffle and silent auction for rhea research came from various area organizations.

For more information on the association, contact Ron Grove at Nan-Jac Farm in York County, (717) 244-6571 or Vicki Grove in Lancaster County, (717) 284-2551.

NFO Convention Dec. 4-7

AMES, Iowa — On its 40th anniversary, the National Farmers Organization's national convention is coming to Madison, Wis., capital city of "America's Dairyland."

"It's appropriate that this landmark anniversary convention be held in a state where support for the National Farmers Organization has always been so strong," said Steve Halloran, National Farmers president. "It will be easier for many of our members to attend and help celebrate this milestone."

U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Dan Glickman will address the convention delegates Tuesday morning, Dec. 5.

Focal point of the convention will be the election for national president and vice president. Three candidates have announced their intentions to seek the presidency. They are Halloran, Hastings, Neb., who is seeking his second and final term; John Garland, vice president, Dale, Ind., and Gene Paul, Delavan, Minn., director of dairy operations.

Two candidates have announced their intentions to seek the vice presidency. They are William A. "Bill" Goettemoeller, national director, Versailles, Ohio, and Paul Olson, national director, Taylor, Wis. The election will be held Thursday, Dec. 7.

The public information meeting will kick off the convention on Monday evening. The communications department will demonstrate National Farmers' new home page on the Internet. A panel discussion on the topic "How will agriculture communicate in the year 2010?" will follow the Internet demonstration.

Panelists include Gene Johnston, managing editor of Successful Farming magazine; Roger Olson, executive director, National Association of Farm Broadcasters; Matt Joyce, vice president, farm business services, Wisconsin Milk Marketing Board, and Stacy Crull, former Wisconsin FFA vice president.

Tobacco Farmers:
We will be receiving tobacco Mon.-Fri. 7am - 3:30pm

A note to my farmer friends:
If you should decide to process part of your crop, please talk to us at our warehouse located across the street from Paradise Tobacco Sales Barn - not at the auction please.
Also, we will not take tobacco that was at the auction first - that is not good business for us, I want to stay in good terms with auction personnel.
If you wish to process, we will be happy to help you get top dollar for your tobacco crop. Do not make a hasty decision this year.

Pan American Brown Swiss Breeders Conference Set

BELOIT, Wis.—Brown Swiss Association leaders from North, Central and South America met during World Dairy Expo in Madison, Wis. to lay the groundwork for the first Pan American Conference of Brown Swiss Associations.

Accepting the invitation from the Brown Swiss Association of Brazil, the countries voted to stage the first conference in Sao Paulo, Brazil in October, 1996 in conjunction with the Expomilk, the Brazilian national dairy show.

Conference chairman is to be Virgilio Eustaquio Da Silva, president of the association in Brazil.

The organization committee accepted the following goals as guidelines for the new organization: A. Establish and enhance communication between Brown Swiss cattle breeders and herdbook associations. B. Showcase genetic progress and breed association programs by member countries. C. Provide assistance and information to growing herdbook associations and breeder groups wanting to organize. D. Share protocols for genetic exchange between member countries (semen, embryos, cattle). E. Provide interpretation for genetic evaluations and herdbook records. F. Work toward unified type evaluations and production proofs. G. Establish publications exchange between countries. H. Share data beneficial to management of and marketing of Brown Swiss genetics to new markets. I. Consider joint concerns and unified positions of "Americas" for future sessions of "World Federation of Brown Swiss Cattle Breeders."

Seventeen countries are known to have organized Brown Swiss associations in the Americas and Caribbean. Each country has been asked to assist in the organizational effort with an initial $200 membership fee followed by a $100 annual membership fee.

The Brown Swiss Cattle Breeder's Association of the U.S.A. will serve as the secretary/treasurer for the organization. Members of the advisory council include Virgilio Eustaquio da Silva, Wellington Canabrava, Brazil; Alfredo Volio, Costa Rica; Fernando Rosero, Ecuador; and Michael Young, U.S.A.

Chesapeake Bay Executive Council Approves Local Initiative

The Chesapeake Bay Program Executive Council includes Virginia Gov. George Allen, who serves as chairman, Pennsylvania Gov. Tom Ridge, Maryland Gov. Parris Glendening, District of Columbia Mayor Marion Barry, U.S. Environmental Protection Agency Administrator Carol Browner, and Chesapeake Bay Commission Chairman Michael Weir.

The emphasis of the agreement is to emphasize the importance of local efforts to increase the effectiveness of strategies to protect tibutaries within the Chesapeake Bay basin.

"Much of our success to date has been due to locally developed site- and situation-specific solutions," Gov. Allen stated in a news release.

"And now, for the first time, locally elected officials will be assured an essential role in the direction and commitments of the Bay Program."

By approving the Local Government Partnership Initiative, council members have agreed to convene a task force by Feb. 1 for the purpose of establishing a "Local Government Participation Action Plan."

The task force is to consist of:
- five representatives from the Local Government Advisory Committee, one to chair and the other four to represent the interests of its jurisdiction;
- six more representatives, one from each of the staffs of the members of the council;
- six local government representatives from Maryland, Pennsylvania and Virginia (Two from each state and at least three shall be local elected officials and up to three can be representatives of "associations that provide services to local governments in the Chesapeake Bay Watershed.");
- and two representatives from the local governing sectors of the District of Columbia who shall represent municipal wards and advisory neighborhood commissions (ANC), with at least one of the two being an elected ANC commissioner, the other may be either a ward representative or a member of city council.

The task force is then to prepare an action plan by Oct. 1, 1996.

That action plan is to do several things.

It is to identify opportunities and document recommendations for obtaining technical and financial assistance for local governments.

It is to broaden outreach to more directly engage local governments in watershed protection and restoration.

It is to identify and recommend changes to the organizational structure and functions of the Chesapeake Bay Program.

It also is to identify the technical and program resources local governments can offer to support the goals of the Bay Program.

In addition to outlining the support the Chesapeake Bay Commission staff is to provide the task force, the executive council also approved that it will:
- work to increase the number of local government representatives on its committees and subcommittees;
- develop a series of local government "indicators" by July 1, 1996, which show the status and progress in restoring resources under the authority of local governments;
- prepare a "handbook for local governments" that would identify projects and programs local governments can do to help support efforts for Bay protection and restoration;
- establish a program to recognize local governments' achievements;
- convene a conference by October to showcase local government innovations in protecting the Bay and local environments.
- identify public information documents and other means of communications which can be tailored for local governments.

Also during the council meeting, members reviewed a report containing more than 100 case studies of Bay-improvement projects ranging from storm water management to habitat restoration.

The report, Chesapeake Bay Communities — Making the Connection, included examples of how communities can enhance the value of their local resources while at the same time contributing to the overall Bay restoration.

Also during the meeting, each member gave an overview of progress being made on the Bay cleanup.

According to comments, some of the highlights of progress include the fact that feshwater portions of the Bay and major rivers are cleaner now than 10 years ago.

According to the news release, "The tital freshwater portions of the Bay and the Bay's major tributary rivers are cleaner and healthier than they were 10 years ago.

"The improvement in water quality in these sections of the Bay and rivers is directly connected to reduced runoff from agricultural land, the phosphate detergent ban and phosphorous reductions from point sources, such as wastewater treatment plants and other industrial facilities."

The release also stated that because nitrogen levels have not been reduced significantly, "The saltier parts of the Bay are not showing the same improvement ... .

"However, the Bay Program is seeing nitrogen reductions in specific geographical areas, like Maryland's Patuxent River, where point source nitrogen removal techniques are in place, and the tidal fresh James River in Virginia, where pollution prevention techniques are showing benefits."

In other environmental improvements, the council stated that there have been significant reductions in toxic chemicals released into the Bay basin.

According to the news release, the amount of toxic chemicals released by industries within the Bay's basin has decreased by more than 52 percent between 1988 and 1993. (The national average reduction was 42 percent.)

The council also cited the fact that almost 300 miles of riverway within the basin has been reopened to migratory fish needing to swim upriver to reach spawning areas.

The goal of the program is to have 1,357 miles reopened to migratory fish by 2003. The migratory species include the American shad, striped bass and herring.

The American shad restoration project on the Susquehanna has been successful to date resulting in "... substantial increases in the American shad in the Bay region. The American shad population estimates in the upper Bay and Susquehanna River in Pennsylvania increased from below 10,000 shad in 1980 to well over 300,000 in 1995."

It was also reported that 120 local and state officials received stream restoration training through funding provided by the Chesapeake Bay Program.

Those officials were provided with skills necessary to carry out 500 locally funded restoration projects. Trainees are now working to restore about 250 miles of stream and riparian habitat in 18 major river basins.

In addition to adopting Local Government Partnership Initiative, the executive council also adopted statements concerning the use of pesticides and management of ballast water in the basin and bay.

IPM

Its pesticide statement preface begins with an explanation of the fact that in October 1994 the council adopted the Chesapeake Bay Basinwide Toxics Reduction and Prevention Strategy.

"As part of that strategy, we agreed to manage the use of pesticides to prevent adverse effects on living resources and human health within the Chesapeake Bay basin.

"We further committed to establish, by 2000, voluntary integrated pest management practices on 75 percent of all agricultural, recreational, and public lands, within the Bay basin."

According to the adopted statement, "... we adopt as part of the Chesapeake Bay Basinwide Toxics Reduction and Prevention Strategy, the following additional goal:

"Develop and conduct basinwide education and outreach programs for commercial and household pesticide applicators to promote, by the year 2000, voluntary integrated pesticide management (IPM) practices on 50 percent of all commercial land and 25 percent of the residential land in the Bay basin.'"

Ballast Water

In adopting its ballast statement the executive council adopted the recommendations of the Chesapeake Bay Commission.

The problem of ballast water discharged into the Bay — as well as other international port waters — is that it is a source of introduction of foreign aquatic diseases, plants and animals that threaten indigenous species or their habitat.

The introduction of the razor clam into the Great Lakes system, aquatic plants over the years, fish species, etc., has caused the loss of an uncalculable amount of wealth to all people because of the costly battles needed to protect remaining resources from deterioration, or because of the entire loss of a commercially valuable species.

According to the statement adopted by the executive council, "This fulfills our pledge made by the Chesapeake Executive Council in 1993 and contained in the 'Chesapeake Bay Policy on the Introduction of Nonindigenous Aquatic Species' to establish a panel consisting of user groups, federal and state agencies, and other interested parties to identify options to reduce the risks associated with the discharge of ballast water into the Chesapeake Bay.

"By adopting the recommendations, we support the reauthorization of the Nonindigenous Aquatic Nusiance Prevention and Control Act of 1990, the implementation of a national program of voluntary ballast water management guidelines and reporting procedures, collaborative ballast water management protocols by all nations, development of vessel designs to facilitate ballast water exchange, the demonstration of ballast water management technologies and practices, and multi-lingual education campaigns for crews of ships."

In its statement the council acknowledges and joins in support of the resolutions adopted by the General Assemblies of Maryland, Pennsylvania and Virginia in urging the federal government to take action to prevent the introduction of non-indigenous species to the Chesapeake Bay and other areas at risk.

Riparian Forest

Last year, the council adopted a Riparian Forest Buffer Directive. An update was presented to the council.

Under the directive a panel was to be formed to develop future goals and recommend policy for a basinwide effort to protect, maintain and restore "riparian forest buffers."

The word "riparian" is an adjective used to describe something living or located along the banks of a waterway, or a standing body of water.

While during the 1970s many in agriculture were encouraged by the federal government to expand tillable land through the drainage of wetlands, the removal of fencelines, etc., many also eliminated streamside forested areas.

The typical waterway in Pennsylvania historically was a forest waterway, with mature trees and the canopies providing bank stabilization, protection of water from direct sun and thus overheating, and providing a higher constant humidity and ground-air temperature.

Even though forest plants do transpire and cause some evaporation of water, the water-retaining effects of a forest allows for a more reliable capture of rainwater and release into streams, instead of the current flooding that occurs with human construction techniques and existing storm water drainage systems.

During long periods of heat, leaf canopies protect the ground and water from direct solar heating, reducing thermals and thus excessive losses of water from a watershed.

Through natural environmental dynamics, the loss of forested areas can be counted on to result in more variable water availability, or in other words, a situation of flooding or drought.

The statewide deforestation that occured throughout Pennsylvania during the state's lumber heydays destroyed the capability and capacity of many large and small streams and rivers to host many important fish species.

Some of those species, such as the brook trout, are now raised by the state and private concerns which control some of the states largest springheads.

Those fish raised at large annual costs in some of the best quality water in the state are stocked into some of the worst quality streams to provide recreation.

This is done despite the fact that because of the loss of protective forest buffers and other related water quality problems, most fish stocked in these low quality streams, if not all, are expected to die by summer because of high water temperatures.

While agriculture has fairly well reversed its trend of degrading streams by removing trees and other riparian forest plants from along the banks and floodplains, urban sprawl and other types of development have been adding to the problem by infiltrating into previously little-touched areas.

These are areas that were left untouched until now because they are marginal if not poor places to construct dwellings or conduct agrarian enterprise.

Those seeking to build homes for a profit face limited and costly areas as sites for new residential development.

However, with extensions of public sewer and water lines and rezoning if necessary to suit the needs of a developer, many of these forested riparian areas are being lost or are being poorly developed.

According to a summary of the report on the progress of the riparian forest directive, a 30-member group has been created to develop those goals and recommend policy for riparian buffers.

The panel's members represent federal, state and local government, citizens, scientists, agriculture, developers, and those concerned primarily with the health of the environment.

During 1996, the panel is to hold a series of forums to discuss issues, hold meetings with special interest groups represented on the panel, and report recommendations back to the Chesapeake Executive Council.

The panel's mission is to recommend a comprehensive policy and strategy to enhance overall stewardship of streambank areas, retention of riparian forests where they exist and restoration where needed.

The panel is also to develop measurable goals based on sound science; recommend flexible strategies that consider real differences in landscape, existing policy, environmental conditions, and landowners concerns; focus first on regulatory and incentive programs and add voluntary as needed; increase private and non-profit participation; recognize the roles of education, technical assistance, training, and continued research; and be responsive to the landowner while ensuring that the regulated are involved.

The panel is to meet every four to six weeks and hold additional workshops, issue forums and public meetings to discuss specific aspects of the work.

Farm Bureau Requests Milk Price Increase

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.)—The drought in Pennsylvania played havoc with milk production costs and dairymen lose money every time they milk to market. This was the summation of a dairy expert requesting a milk price increase for dairymen at a hearing held here today by the Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board (PMMB).

Melvin Eckhaus, dairy specialist for the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau, presented testimony to the state regulatory agency saying farmers should have a price increase of 25 cents per hundredweight of milk, because of increased cattle feed costs. The drought, starting in August, caused cattle feed prices to increase because of the crop shortages, the dairy expert said.

Eckhaus cited figures from the PA Agricultural Statistics Service (PASS) which reveals farmers lost money for the 12 months ending September 1995. "This means that the average Pennsylvania farmer lost money for every hundredweight of milk they produced," he testified. PASS figures do not include any financial returns for management and the equity capital of the farm, nor the cost of federal government assessments. If these cost items were included, Eckhaus said, farmer losses would be even greater.

Shortages of feed crops and increased feed purchases will have its most dramatic effect on the dairymen during the winter months, according to Eckhaus. The Pennsylvania Farm Bureau conducted a survey of dairymen in October which estimated the cost of purchased feed would increase more than 18 cents per hundredweight of milk.

"The total cost of milk production for farmers for the 12 months ending September 1995 is $16.87 per hundredweight. The average price received by farmers was $13.49 per hundredweight. That's a loss for the average dairyman of $3.38 cents per hundredweight," according to Eckhaus.

Citing figures from the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA), Eckhaus noted that the supplies of fluid milk are tight nationwide. In fact, he said, USDA announced its estimate of Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) purchases in 1996 to be

Smysers Continue As Top York County Herd

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

SHREWSBURY (York Co.) — The high performance herd of Smyser's Richlawn Farm has extended for yet another year its perch at the top spot of York County's Dairy Herd Improvement Association production listing.

Rodney Smyser, who operates the East Berlin Road, York, registered Holstein herd with his brother Robert, accepted an armful of awards during the county's annual DHIA dinner and recognition meeting, held Nov. 20 at the Shrewsbury Fire Hall.

With a rolling herd average for the year of 25,075 pounds of milk, 773 pounds protein and 934 pounds butterfat, Smyser's Richlawn Farm topped both the milk production and protein categories.

Individuals in the 75-head herd also claimed top awards for 305-day milk and protein production and high lifetime milk production.

The herd's accomplishments combined to earn the York farm the county's management award, with a total of 113 points. Richlawn's repeat performances at the top of the county list have continued for nearly a decade.

Also claiming a repeat award of several years running were Edward and Carolyn Calhoun, Glen Rock, taking the low somatic cell count award with an average of 149,000. Topping the high lifetime production for protein was Horace Heindel, Airville, whose Satin cow tallied a total of 7,159 pounds.

Recording the most protein pounds of improvement, among herds averaging over 600 pounds of protein, was Beshore Farms, New Cumberland, with an increase of 39 pounds. An increase of 96 pounds earned Hidden Springs Farm the top award for protein increase in herds under 600 pounds average.

During the business session, three directors were elected to three-year terms on the county DHIA board. Filling those positions are John Doll, Hanover, John Sprenkle, Spring Grove and Jerry Taylor, Delta. An award of appreciation was presented to outgoing board member Gary Thoman, for six years of service, several as president of the York DHIA.

Scott Cooper, Delta, county president, reviewed in his report the continuing decline in test herds and cow numbers, balanced by continuing increases in production. In 1994, York County had 78 herds with 6,063 cows, or 71 per herd, with herds averaging 18,135 pounds, to rank the county 30th in Pennsylvania. In 1995, 74 herds with 5,880 cows were on test, with 73.5 cows per herd, averaging 18,472 pounds of milk, and ranking 27th in the state.

With an increase in herds testing on one-time, AM-PM testing, York County operated more efficiently, with one less technician and more working days per remaining technicians. York technicians include Abbe Gore, Donald Messinger, Jean Myers, Carolyn and Clyde Stump and Marianne Walter.

"We want to maintain the quality and the integrity of testing, but at the same time, be the least-cost server of members' testing needs," affirmed Cooper.

Further state efficiencies were reviewed by district director Neil McCullough, Newville, who represents Cumberland and York counties on the state DHIA board. McCullough noted that the current debt of the statewide testing cooperative has been reduced to one-third its previous level.

Regional manager Dave Shenk and director of field services Dean Amick reviewed the state DHIA's newest program offered to members, Milk Urea Nitrogen (MUN) testing.

MUN testing is a method of evaluating if cows are being overfed protein, a condition which can adversely affect reproductivity efficiency. Over-feeding protein can also cost as much as $50 per cow per year.

MUN testing, which measures the milk urea nitrogen levels in milk samples, is less costly and easier than previous methods which required blood sampling. In comparative tests run on the dairy herd at the University of Pennsylvania's New Bolton Center, MUN results from milk and blood were virtually identical.

According to Shenk, MUN testing will cost 15 cents per cow and is optional, to be utilized only as frequently as a producer-member feels is necessary. MUN testing is recommended when major changes are made in feeding programs or new feed supplies are put into use.

Top five production herds were Smyser's Richlawn Farms, 25,075 pounds milk average, Ramsey Cooper Jr., 24,250 pounds, Sinking Springs Farm Inc., 23,694 pounds, William Myers, 23,415 pounds and Lynn Wolf, 23,075 pounds milk.

From the left, York County Dairy Princess Angela Mummert congratulates Rodney Smyser, representing Smyser's Richlawn Farms, for winning multiple county DHIA production awards, and Carolyn Calhoun, for again having the lowest somatic cell count among county DHIA herds.

Smyser's high protein of 773 pounds was followed by Lynn Wolf, with 745 pounds, Sinking Springs Farm Inc., 744 pounds, Ramsey Cooper Jr., 740 pounds and Beshore Farms, 739 pounds protein.

High 305-day record went to Emily, of Smyser's Richlawn Farms, with 34,823 pounds of milk, followed by Glen and Dawn Anderson's cow Pamela, with 34,635 pounds. Third was Loretta, with 33,778, owned by Earl Fuhrman, fourth was Woodbine Farms' #479, with 33,778, and fifth was a second herd member of Smyser's Richlawn, Bertha, with 33,654 pounds.

Smyser's had the top two 305-day protein records, Poppy, with 1,098 pounds, and Jenna, with 1,042. Stump Acres was third with Najet's 1,036-pound record. Fourth was Beshore Farms' Jewel, producing 1,031 pounds protein, and fifth was Shelly, another Smyser herd member, at 1,027 pounds.

High lifetime milk production was Smyser's Sally, with a seven-lactation total of 239,917. Second was Becky, with 237,371 in eight lactations, owned by Wayne Myers, third was Ramsey Cooper, Jr.'s Michelle, 235,655 pounds in nine lactations, fourth was Joelyn, 223,148 pounds in six lactations, owned by Smyser's Richlawn, and fifth was Lily, with 210,984 pounds in eight lactations.

Tallying high lifetime protein honors behind Heindel's Satin, at 7,159 pounds in 10 lactations, were Ramsey Cooper's Michelle, 6,928 pounds in nine lactations, Smyser's Sally, with 6,880 in seven lactations, Wayne Myer's Becky, with 6,790 pounds in eight lactations and Smyser's Joelyn, with 6,728 pounds protein in six lactations.

Lebanon DHIA Members Elect Officers, Discuss MUN

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

MYERSTOWN (Lebanon Co.) — The Lebanon County Dairy Herd Improvement Association (DHIA) held its annual meeting Thursday evening at Myerstown Church of the Brethren.

The banquet-meeting is held to review the past year's accomplishments and talk about future direction, recognize outstanding production and quality by member herds and individual cows, and to elect directors. Kenneth Sellers, of Annville, presided.

Lebanon County is well known for its quality cattle and has has ranked first or second in highest averaging herd milk production among DHIA herds in the state. This year it ranked second.

Receiving recognition for having the county's top averaging herd for milk, fat and protein production was Meadow Spring Farm, owned by Nelson Sensenig, of Newmanstown. The farm also was the top averaging herd in the state for the production of milk and protein.

Sensenig's 94-cow herd averaged 30,758 pounds of milk, 961 pounds of fat and 980 pounds of protein on a three-times-per-day milking schedule.

Sensenig also received recognition for having the top protein producing cow in the county. Meadow Spring Farm No. 80, a 5-year-old, was also the top milk and protein producing cow in the state on DHIA test. She made 49,348 pounds of milk, 1,408 pounds of protein and 917 pounds of fat.

Overall, three of Sensenig's cows were rated among the top 10 milk producers, as well as being the top three protein producers.

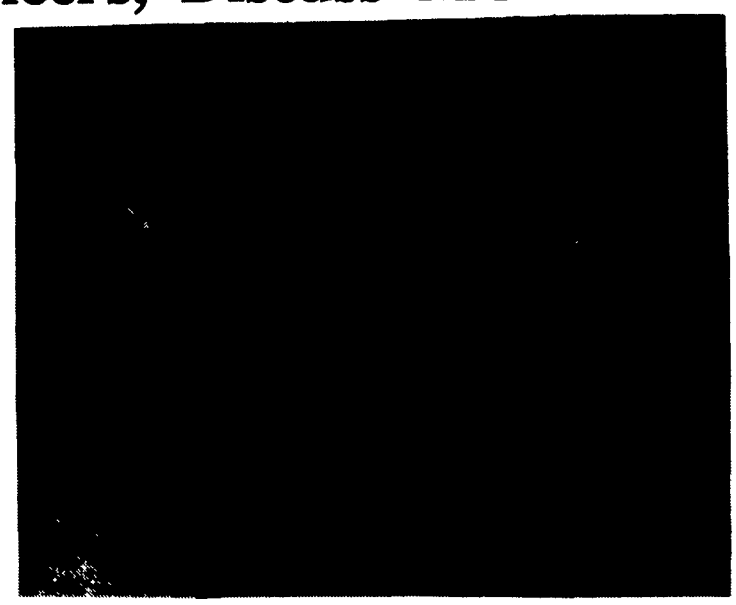
David Brandt, of Annville, was recognized as the winner of the county herd management award, while Barry Hostetter was presented with the award for having the herd with the lowest somatic cell count, at 107,000.

Speaking to the group was David Shenk III, the DHIA regional manager, state director and Pa.DHIA treasurer Dale Hoover, and Dean Amick, the Pa.DHIA director of field services.

Hoover reviewed the structure of Pa.DHIA, the responsibilities of DHIA directors, and some changes within the system. He also discussed the 1996 budget that the organization has been working on. According to Hoover, the finances of the Pa.DHIA have turned around during the past six months and its cash position is in "good shape."

He said that the outlook for the cooperative is good, as long as members keep in mind that DHIA is a cooperative "and we all have to work together."

He also discussed uniform pricing, which has long been a goal of some, though balancing costs fairly has proven difficult with some different pricing formulas being used around the state and for other reasons, Hoover said it has been difficult to get pricing uniformity.



From the left, Dennis Wampler presents a plaque to Dennis Brandt commemorating Brandt's achievement as the recipient of the 1995 Lebanon County DHIA herd management award.

He said Pa.DHIA is also looking across the nation at other cooperatives to see what future needs might be and how best to approach

In the low somatic cell category, Edwin Calhoun's 149,000 average topped the second place herd of Applehurst Farm, with 158,000. Third was Glen and Gary Crowl, 178,000, Glen and Dawn Anderson, 195,000, and Rutter's with 204,000.

Most protein production improvement in herds under 600 was topped with Hidden Springs Farm, Holstein herd, at 96 pounds, with their mixed herd in second place on an improvement of 85 pounds. Third was David Emig, 79 pounds, fourth was Woodbine Farms, 77 pounds, and Elvin Deiter, fifth, with 76 pounds.

In herds over 600 pounds, Beshore Farm finished first with 39 pounds, over Rutters with 38 pounds, Dale Ranck with 37 pounds, TayAcres with 36 pounds and William Myers, with 34 pounds.

A 113-point total put Smyser's Richlawn Farm at the top of herd management tally, followed by William Myers, 108 points, Ramsey Cooper, Jr., 105 points, Rutter Bros., 102 points and Rutter's with 90 points.

From the left, York County DHIA President Scott Cooper presents a certificate of appreciation from the county DHIA to Gary Thoman and wife Gail for Thoman's six years of service on the board of directors, several of which he served as president. Also helping to present the award is Neil McCullough, DHIA district director.

the future to best position Pa.DHIA members for leading edge service.

Hoover also reminded members that the organization is designed to serve them and to meet their needs. He said that members should call Pa.DHIA if there is some other need they have that the cooperative might be able to help provide.

Dean Amick congratulated the county DHIA on the quality of its technicians and board of directors. He also discussed a tight manpower situation with technicians. He said that about 70 percent of the cost of operating Pa.DHIA is tied up in field service. The organization had employeed 181 technicians about a year ago. Amick said that number is now to 135 and there is little ability to cover for emergencies.

He said that as the organization continues to recover financially and continues to make strides foward that it was his hope that more technicians would be hired within the next year.

It was also mentioned that Pa.DHIA is looking for people in the Lebanon County service area willing to work as a technician.

Amick also reviewed the Pa.DHIA milk urea nitrogen (MUN) testing and its development. According to Amick, the technology, while still new, is a strong tool that has been developing rapidly through application.

He said the University of Pennsylvania's New Bolton Center used MUN testing and at first thought something was wrong with the tests because of different values. However, he said that separate blood tests done at the same time on the New Bolton herd confirmed the MUN test results and lead officials at New Bolton to discover that they had a feed problem that otherwise would have gone undetected and resulted in lost milk production.

Also speaking were Galen Kopp, county extension agent who congratulated members on their achievements and updated them on upcoming meetings and educational opportunities, and Stephanie Buck alternate county dairy princess who, along with Dairy Maid Andrea Bashore, and Lil' Misses Elizabeth Smith and Faith Heagy, gave a presentation on the nutritional advantages of dairy products.

In other business, elected to serve on the county board of directors were Mike Arnold, Dan Brandt, and Scott Nolt. Outgoing members are Dale Hoover, Stan Bucher and Dennis Wampler.

From the left, Mike Arnold, Dan Brandt and Scott Nolt are new Lebanon County DHIA directors.

less than 3.5 billion pounds of milk products, lowest in nearly 17 years. This evaluation is another strong indicator of low fluid milk supplies, Eckhaus told the regulators.

Concerns about out-of-state competition for Pennsylvania dairymen led PMMB in July to order a reduction of the over-order price by 10 cents per month from 80 to 50 cents per hundredweight. Farm Bureau opposed that order, because it believed that fluid milk was in short supply, later proven correct by recent USDA reports.

"Pennsylvania producers need the assurance that they will receive the average cost of production for their milk," the dairy specialist testified. "This is not to say that all producers should be guaranteed a profit. However, if the average dairy farm is not able to sustain a profit, the Pennsylvania dairy industry is in serious jeopardy. Although we believe we can justify a producer price increase by as much as $3.38 per hundredweight, we want to take a responsible position," Eckhaus stated. The Farm Bureau spokesman requested a minimum increase of 25 cents per hundredweight for farmers. Eckhaus said the additional increase would be added to the existing 50 cents per hundredweight already in place for the time period of January 1, 1996 to May 31, 1996. At that time the price would revert back to the existing over-order price of 50 cents per hundredweight.

Pennsylvania Farm Bureau is a voluntary, statewide farm organization representing 25,851 member families in 54 county farm bureaus.

Bupp, together with wife Judith, operate Penn Vermont Farm, located off Rt. 113 in Bedminster. The farm name came from the original location of Ken (who grew up near Bedminster), thus the name "Penn," and Ken's wife Judith, who grew up in Waits River, Vt.

The Bupps maintain about 58 acres of cropland on both sides of Rt. 113.

Of those 58, 25 are in orchards, vine crops, and other fruit crops which they sell on their farm. Much of the acreage is also pick-your-own.

In all, they grow about five acres of strawberries, one of brambles (red raspberries, black raspberries, and blackberries), two acres of sweet corn, two of apples, two of pears, one of peaches, and seven acres of pumpkins and squash.

They run a cider press operation that is tractor-driven. Cider is sold in gallons and half-gallons at the farm. The press has been in operation on the farm since 1938. They process about 20,000 gallons of cider per year.

They also take care of nearly 20 acres of rye, which they use as mulch for their rows of strawberries. They use about four acres of drip irrigation and use overhead irrigation on crops, including the sweet corn.

Bupp, who has maintained his electrical contracting business for more than 30 years, purchased the orchard in 1982. He joined the conservation district in 1984.

"We started our conservation work soon after we bought the place," he said. "It took Judith and me close to five years just to clear out the old orchards."

Both went to work removing old trees to make way for the rye crops.

After the trees were cleared, diversions were installed on a steep southern slope, including a 30-foot drop nearly 300 feet long. They put in a few hundred feet of waterways and diversions as well as a lot of underground tile.

In all, according to Ed Brzostek, a district conservationist with the NRCS, about 5,500 feet of tile have been installed on the farm. Also included at the farm are 2,800 feet of waterway and 3,500 feet of terraces and diversions.

Bupp maintains a 150-foot buffer strip between the stream and the vegetable and fruit crops he grows.

The farm pond, used extensively for irrigation, has a one million gallon capacity and encompasses about a half acre on the surface.

Ken, who said he has wanted to work on a dairy farm since working on farms in high school, first learned to be an electrical contractor. Ken and Judith once lived in the original farm homestead they now occupy. A short while later, they moved into a new home. When the opportunity arose, they purchased the farm.

"We gave up a beautiful new home and everything real nice," said Bupp. "Our friends can't understand this, but. . . . We could have a new home if we sold the farm.

"You soon find out that new homes aren't everything."

In 1991, Bupp signed the farm up for preservation — one of the first of four farms preserved in Bucks County.

"When it was first started, there was a lot of hesitation on the part of farmers to sign up," said Bupp. "Of course, one of the big concerns and that concerns us still here is that you can get into this, but your taxes keep going up and the farm income doesn't keep up with taxes. (Farm income) doesn't keep up with other segments of the business."

One of the concerns is that the price of equipment repair keeps going up, not keeping pace with farm income.

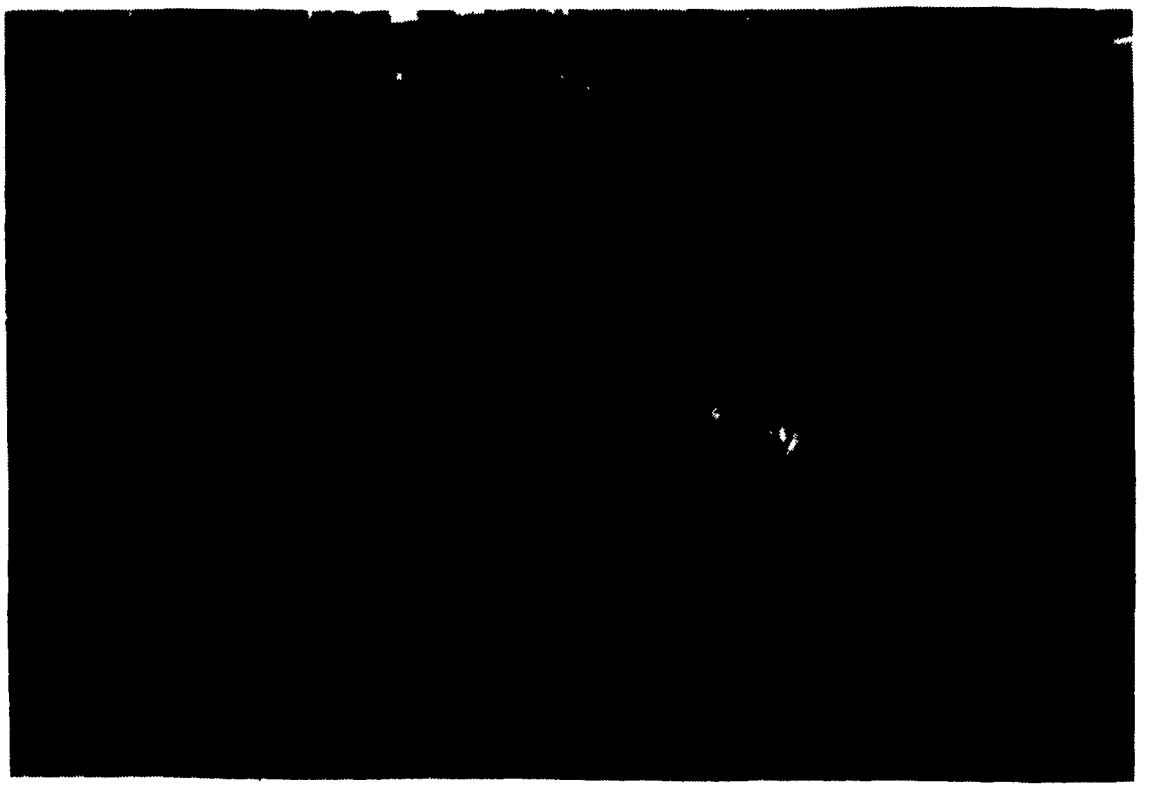
But the preservation helps farmers and the local public.

"Farmers and other landowners are seeing it as a good thing, and now it's just snowballing," said Bupp. "There are more (landowners) on the waiting list than (the preservation board) will ever be able to give them money for."

In the meantime, Bupp said the quality of the soil — a shallow silt loam — does well with his irrigation and the quality of the crops remains high. "I can compete with any county in the state for produce quality," he said.

Bupp, who was honored with the Conservation Farm of the Year Award in February 1994, said that the awards recognize the work of all the farms in the county.

"Almost every farmer you look at today is very conscious of soil and water conservation," he said. "So when we accept (the awards), I guess we're really accepting it for a lot of farmers, because any number of them could have won it.



After contacting the county conservation district and working closely with the Soil Conservation Service (now the Natural Resource Conservation Service) and the state fish commission in the early 1990s, Ken Bupp, right, made extensive repairs to the streambank. He also installed crown vetch and netting to stabilize the banks. Here Bupp inspects the crown vetch with Ed Brzostek, conservationist with the NRCS.

"I don't think we were that much outstanding than a lot of other farmers that have done a really super job."

In the past, said Bupp, you could travel down the road and see all kinds of erosion, including huge gullies in the fields. "You just rarely see that anymore.

"We could get in the car now and take a ride and look at a lot of really good work."

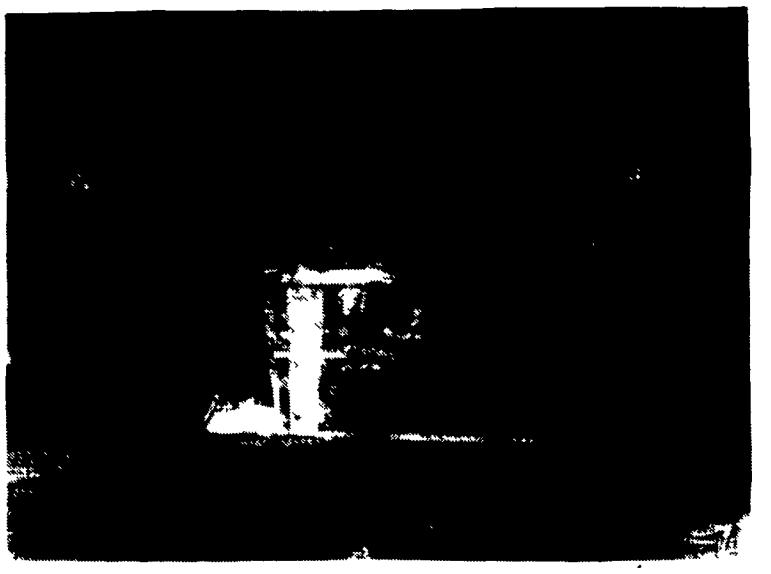
Bupp said he accepts the award as a personal honor, and "am really happy about it.

"It benefits me right now (and) in the immediate future," he said, "but it's also going to benefit the next owners and it benefits the neighbors and it benefits future generations."

Bupp said you can never get completely finished with conservation work.

"As you're working out in the fields, you're always thinking and looking and you always see another spot that something ought to be done. You sit there daydreaming about all this work you want to do, but then you come back to reality when the money is considered."

But cost-sharing is available. A stream crossing project on the Bupp Farm makes use of precast concrete connected by cables. The concrete, in blocks measuring a foot square by nine inches thick, was constructed in May 1995 with cost-share money.



In all, the Bupps grow about five acres of strawberries, one of brambles (red raspberries, black raspberries, and blackberries), two acres of sweet corn, two of apples, two of pears, one of peaches, and seven acres of pumpkins and squash. Ken Bupp, left, with Ed Brzostek.

Bupp said the quality of the soil — a shallow silt loam — does well with his irrigation and the quality of the crops remains high. "I can compete with any county in the state for produce quality," he said. He stands with wife, Judith and grandson, Dylan.

Proposal Would Increase Apple Producer Assessment

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Agriculture Secretary Charles C. Brosius is urging apple producers to participate in a public hearing on Monday, Dec. 18 to discuss a proposed change to the Pennsylvania Apple Marketing Program.

The hearing is to begin at 1 p.m. in Room 309 of the Agriculture Department Building, located at 2301 North Cameron Street in Harrisburg.

Brosius noted that the program promotes the sale of Pennsylvania-grown apples and apple products.

"This program works best for growers with their input," Brosius said.

The proposed change would increase the assessment rate or producer charge of the program.

If approved, the current rates of 7 cents per bushel of apples sold for fresh market use and 4 cents per one hundred pounds (cwt.) of apples sold for processing would be respectively increased to 12 cents per bushel and 6 cents per cwt. for the 1996-97 growing season.

Also, the proposed change includes an automatic increase of the assessment rate to 15 cents per bushel and 8 cents per cwt. in 2000.

Testimony will be received on the rate of assessment and other necessary and relevant matters. The proposed change applies to all apple producers in the commonwealth with 500 or more apple trees of any age (all ages).

To request a copy of the proposed change, schedule testimony, or obtain more information, write to the Agriculture Department, Bureau of Market Development, Pennsylvania Apple Marketing Program, 2301 North Cameron Street, Harrisburg, PA 17110-9408. The telephone number is (717) 787-5086.

Pa. DHIA Develops Farm Performance Economics

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.)—Pa. DHIA has developed a Performance Economics Program in association with Dr. Steve Ford, farm management specialist at Penn State, and George Wilcox, senior extension agent, Erie County.

Confidentiality and simplicity were our objectives.

The program consists of five pages of instructions, a one-page worksheet, a completed worksheet as a sample and a replica of the Pa. DHIA technician's laptop computer feed screen.

The simple instructions guide our members on a line-by-line calculation of the worksheet, which provides cost per cwt. figures on home grown feeds, purchased feeds, and other non-feed items. What are the non-feed items? Basically it is all other expenses in operating your dairy farm including dairy herd cost, heifer cost, and other items like BST.

You start with your 1040F Federal Income Tax form or your budget if you make one. You end with cost per cwt. figures which are reported to your technician. You report your milk price. You need to get Herd Summary I, Pa. DHIA will do the rest.

What will you get back?

On Herd Summary I:

1) Cost per cwt. to produce milk in a test period.

2) Net farm income per cow on a 12 month basis.

3) Net farm income for herd on 12 month rolling basis.

4) Cost per cow and net income per cow by lactation group.

5) Net income per cow by group and you can create a BST group.

6) Gross income projection and there is more.

On the Monthly Lactation Report:

1) Net income per day on each individual cow.

2) Total expense per cow per day.

3) Total cost per cow lactation total to date.

4) Net income per cow lactation total to date, and

5) after cow completed lactation, net income for each cow.

On Individual Cow Page:

1) Net income per lactation including lifetime profit.

Pa. DHIA has requested time on Dairy Day programs to present this program to you. We are also requesting our county DHIA committees to schedule county meetings on Performance Economics. Dr. Steve Ford or Dave Sluzzer will conduct these meetings.

If you cannot wait for a meeting, contact Judy Walker at Pa. DHIA. Our address is Orchard Road, University Park, PA 16802, or call 1-800-DHI-TEST and Judy will send the program out to Pa. DHIA members free.

Holstein Sets Feet, Leg Composite

BRATTLEBORO, Vt.—A new Feet and Leg Composit will be introduced by Holstein Association USA with the January 1996 Sire Summaries.

The new composite includes two additional traits: the linear trait, rear legs—rear view, and the major breakdown for feet and legs.

The composite is nearly three times more informative in explaining herdlife differences between cows than the old composite values.

Four traits are used in the composite. The new formula is based on a 50:50 ratio of the three linear traits combined with the major breakdown score for feet and legs.

The three linear traits will be weighted as follows: .48 foot angle + .37 rear legs rear view - .15 rear legs side view. New F&L Composite = .5 (linear traits) + .5 (feet and leg breakdown)

Longer herdlife is obtained by selecting animals that transmit a steeper foot angle, wider rear leg stance with little or no hock-in, and a straighter leg set.

"The new Feet and Leg composite will help dairy producers breed a longer-lasting, more profitable cow," according to Tom Lawlor, director of research and development at the Holstein Association USA.

Book Researches Amish Culture's Influence On Transition

Amish Find Success In Business

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

ELIZABETHTOWN (Lancaster Co.) — Amish and farming seem inseparable.

But Amish enterprises are popping up all over this county and in more than 200 other Amish settlements in 22 states and Canada. Amish and business may become the norm in the next decade.

It's not that Amish are deserting the farm, but there aren't enough farms for the rising Amish population, which doubles every 20 years.

A newly released book, "Amish Enterprise From Plows to Profits," written by Donald B. Kraybill and Steven M. Nolt, takes an in-depth look at the Amish businesses, lifestyles, and how the transition from farm to business is affecting Amish culture.

This transition was brought on largely by what author Kraybill calls a population squeeze. Even if land prices had remained low, there simply are not enough farms for the rising Amish population.

Approximately 14 county farms go on the market each year — compare that with 200 Amish couples that marry and begin independent living each year.

They could, of course, work for other businesses. Some do.

In the mid-sixties, many Amish boys were going to work in local factories. There, they faced a daily battle with the worldly influence of blaring music, profane language, and organized labor. The harsh recession of the 1970s ended up with many unemployed Amish. It forced many of them to take a new look at options.

Some families headed for new settlements, but strong family and community ties kept many from seeking refuge in distant states.

It seemed more logical and convenient to their lifestyle to start up a cottage industry or shop at their dwelling.

The first few Amish enterprises in Lancaster area were closely tied to agriculture. Blacksmiths, harness makers, and carpenters supplied items their own people needed and couldn't buy elsewhere. Some soon discovered the tourist trade was a viable venture.

The book includes an historical account of the Amish that explores how their culture both honed and deterred their entrepreneural skills.

The Amish have a long-standing tradition of a father providing a farm for each son. The hard work, long hours, and belief that God commanded one to earn a living by the sweat of his brow contributed to helping the Amish become diligent business owners.

"The brightest people in Amish society enter business because without high school or college they are not able to enter other professions," Kraybill said.

A survey shows that only four percent of Amish businesses fail compared to 63 percent of new businesses in the society at large as failing within the first six years.

Amish business people typically violate all the accepted assumptions that are necessary for beginning their own businesses.

"They have only an eighth grade education, do not use 110-volt electricity, do not own motor vehicles or computers, and do not prepare strategic plans. As an educator, it sounds anti-education to say that the Amish success rate is so high," Kraybill said.

Among other things, he credits much of their success to the ethic of hard work transferred from the farm, and the creative use of apprenticeship to train young entrepreneurs.

Typically Amish start with little or no debt, use family labor at their at-home location, and prefer to stay small. Their austere lifestyles allow them to put more profit back into the business. One Amish said that he could live on $10,000 with six children.

Few Amish-owned firms existed before the 1970s. Twenty years later, almost a thousand shops have sprung up in the Lancaster area. Some are part-time or seasonal. Some began as a sideline and developed into full-time work.

Of all full-time businesses, more than half have annual sales topping $100,000. One-third of the firms with two or more employees have sales above $500,000.

Surprisingly for the Amish culture, about 20 percent of the entrepreneurs are women, most who started making and selling foods and quilts on the side and soon found themselves operating a shop and even hiring employees.

Traditionally Amish women are expected to be full-time mothers and not divide their energies in seeking a career. But many wives assist their husbands in bookkeeping and in some production work.

Most home-based businesses begin in the family dwelling, farm building, storage barn or unused tobacco sheds converted into shops and retail space.

Sometimes Amish continue to operate their dairy farm with the business. But time and resources and smelling like manure while trying to convince a customer to purchase something in the shop eventually influences most to chose one or the other.

The owners are finding great satisfaction in running a business. But the transition brings a whole new set of conflicts to the Amish community who have clung to established rules throughout the centuries.

Amish businesspersons are becoming unwittingly entangled in legal matters. The church's long-standing prohibitions against litigation, politics, individualism, commercial insurance, higher education, restrictions on technology (motor vehicles, telephones, computers, and electricity) creates almost a constant dilemna. Taboos on pride restrain many from advertising and promoting their products.

As business owners, Amish now have to contend with collecting bad debts, shoplifting, product liability concerns, work-related accident worker's compensation, and other issues while maintaining the Amish stance against using force of any sort to resist evil.

Although wary of using the law to protect their personal and business rights, they have been forced to reach a compromise from necessity, especially for debt collection and liability coverage.

Amish mothers face the conflict of knowing children should come first but a customer must not be kept waiting. An in-home business does not automatically mean that the children's needs have their parents' full attention.

Church leaders fear that young people who no longer have farm chores seven days a week are ending up with too much time and too much money.

At the same time, the church leaders have become tolerant of telephones, air and hydraulic power, electrical inverters, and forklifts to do business — but not in the house.

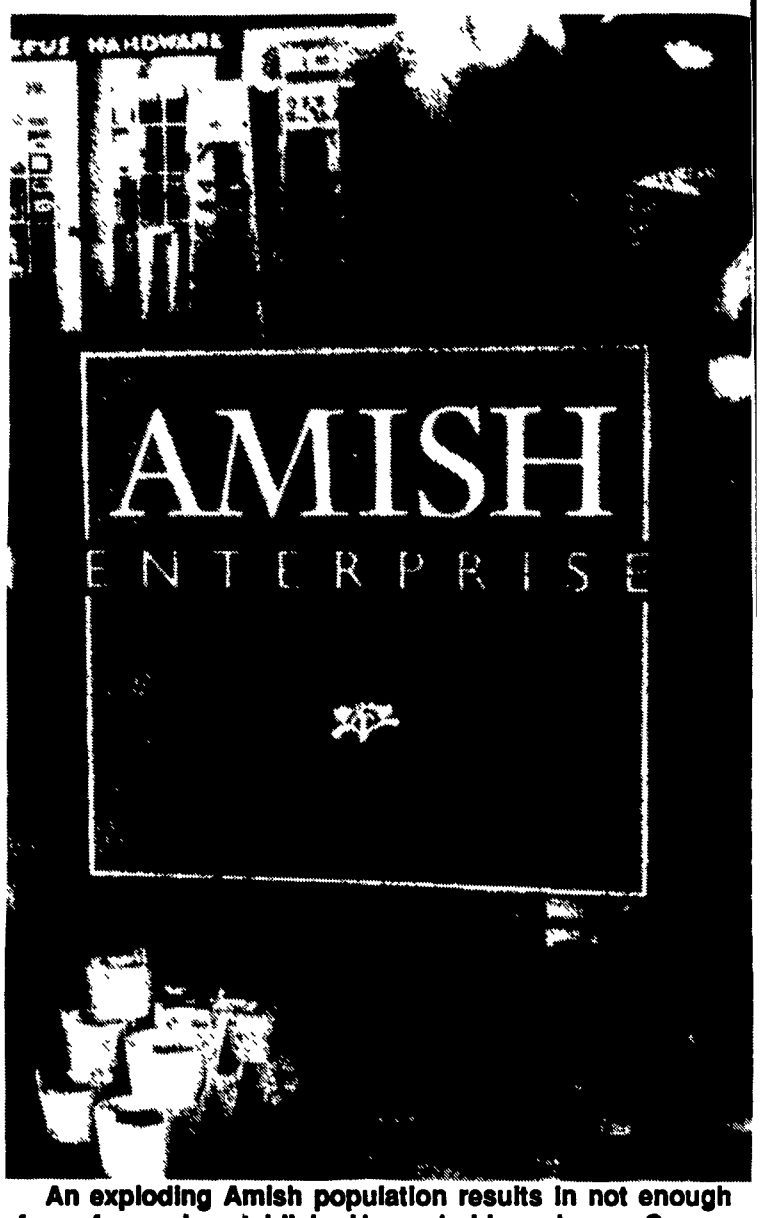
"The Amish have long stressed the importance of separation from the outside world, but now they are doing business with the world — a world that once persecuted them — and in the process the world is transforming them and their traditional values," Kraybill said.

More than 150 Amish entrepreneurs were interviewed for the book, which details some of these businesses by name and others by occupation.

Photographs of the businesses, taken by Dennis Hughes, a Lancaster photographer, are also scattered throughout the 300-page book published by Johns Hopkins University Press.

Kraybill is a sociologist at Elizabethtown College. Nolt, a historian, is also the author of "A History of the Amish" and lives in Indiana.

"Amish Enterprise From Plows to Profits" is available in bookstores or may be purchased by calling Johns Hopkins University Press at 1-800-537-5487. The paper back version sells for $14.95 and the hardcover for $45.



An exploding Amish population results in not enough farms for newly-established households each year. Consequently, many Amish are venturing into developing their own businesses and finding success.

Study Indicates Amish In Lancaster County Buying Farms

ELIZABETHTOWN (Lancaster Co.)—A newly released study shows that the Amish in Lancaster County bought 10,564 acres of farm land from 1984 to 1994.

The results are contrary to the generally accepted belief that Amish are leaving Lancaster County because of the high price of farm land, the extensive development of farm land for residential and commercial purposes, and the volume of tourists who invade the county to see, among other things, the Amish.

Conrad L. Kanagy, Ph.D., assistant professor of sociology at Elizabethtown College, did the study. Here are the results.

Summary Report
Farmland Sales and Religious Affiliation in Lancaster County, PA, 1984-1994

This is a study of 1,092 farm sales in Lancaster County from 1984 to 1994. The religious affiliations of farmland buyers and sellers were obtained through church directories as well as telephone directories and subsequent phone calls. Corporations were identified in land deeds. The religious affiliation of 60% of the sellers was identified along with 72% of the buyers. The remainder were coded as "Unidentified." Only farms of 25 acres or more were included. Traditional Plain Groups include Old Order Amish and Mennonites, most who drive a horse and buggy, receive an eighth grade education, and use technology selectively. Progressive Plain Groups are Mennonites and Brethren who drive automobiles, embrace technology, and operate their own high schools and colleges. English are those with some other religious affiliation or no affiliation. Corporations are developers and businesses. Key findings of the study include:

- Traditional Plain Groups gained 154 farms during the past decade while Progressive Plain Groups and Unidentified lost farms. Outside of Traditional Plain Groups only Corporations had a substantial gain (Table 1).
- Traditional Plain Groups gained 12,911 acres since 1984 while all others except Corporations lost acres (Table 2).
- The Amish gained more than 6 times the acres gained by Corporations during the past decade (Table 2).
- Traditional Plain Groups gained almost 79 million dollars of farmland during the past ten years while Progressive Plain Groups lost farmland valued at 22 million dollars (Table 3).
- Corporations gained nearly 19 million dollars worth of farmland (Table 3).
- From 1984-1988 the Amish gained 10 farms annually. This number increased to 13 for the period 1989-1994.
- Annually, Traditional Plain Groups are adding 14 farms, Progressive Plain Groups are losing 4, the English and Unidentified are losing 13, and Corporations are gaining 2.
- Corporation growth in farms boomed from 1988 to 1990 with a gain of 26 farms but has slowed substantially since.
- Yearling, the Amish are gaining 960 acres. Corporations are gaining 151 acres.
- Traditional Plain Groups gain 1,173 acres each year, Progressive Plain Groups lose 329 acres, English and Unidentified lose 998 acres, and Corporations gain 151 acres.
- Amish have the highest rate of within-group farm sales. Since 1984, 82% of Amish farms sold have stayed in Amish hands. The rate is only 27% for Mennonites and 24% for English. The latter are selling the majority of their farms to outsiders.
- Of all Plain Groups, Mennonites sold the highest percent (34%) to English, Corporations, and Others. The Amish sold less than half that amount (15%) to outsiders.
- Of all farm transactions since 1984, 13% were Amish to Amish sales.
- The Traditional Plain Groups gained 49 farms from the Progressive Plain Groups during the past decade. The Traditional Plain Groups gained 105 farms from the English, Corporations, and Unidentified.
- During the past two years,

Curb The Urge To Splurge

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.)—Many of us splurge during the holidays, not just on gifts, but on parties, decorations, cards, and food. The result is not only empty pockets, but often exhaustion and frustration. We need to re-evaluate what the holidays mean to us.

Families need to sit down together and set priorities for holiday activities. Do you need to mail all those cards or bake three extra batches of cookies? Complete only as many things as you can do comfortably. Congratulate yourself for what you've accomplished rather than agonizing about what you haven't done.

Families also need to set realistic expectations about gifts. Stores, television commercials and magazine advertisements start the Christmas push earlier and earlier each year. Do you need to buy gifts for everyone? Maybe you could draw names with friends and relatives. Set a price limit for gifts and have everyone agree in advance.

If you shop with your children, don't try to accomplish as much as you could do alone. Take your children shopping with you once or twice as a family activity to see the decorations and shop for one or two things. If you plan to do a lot of shopping, it may be worthwhile to hire a baby-sitter or exchange baby-sitting services with a neighbor.

Buy gifts thoughtfully. Will the gift last? Can it be recycled or repaired? Use your creativity to make gifts. Make use of your own talents such as baking, jelly making, weaving, sewing or wreath making. Give a coupon book of favors to be redeemed throughout the year. This can reduce cost as well as make for a more meaningful gift. Another good gift is a donation in the person's name to a local charity or church group.

All Gardens Great & Small

Holly has become a traditional plant favorite for many gardeners during the holiday season. Enjoy hollies outdoor all year long. Or, hollies can survive indoors with special care. Indoor holly plants need a cool, sunny spot that is well-ventilated. When the holidays are over move the plants to a garage or sun porch. You can plant outside as soon as the ground thaws.

The holly plants we buy at Christmas time are often English holly, Ilex equifolium. Grown commercially in the temperate Northwest, the plants are shipped East for us to enjoy. This variety may not be hardy enough to grow outdoors in wind shipped locations.

American holly, Ilex opaca has the same red fruit and spiny leaf shape as its English counterpart and is much easier to grow. While the leaf surface on the American holly is not nearly as glossy as its English cousin, the American variety is native to much of the East Coast and will survive in all but the coldest parts of the state.

American hollies have an upright and somewhat loosely pyramidal shape. After a number of years they grow to about 25 feet but periodic light pruning will help keep plants smaller. When pruning, do not keep the outer layer of foliage too dense. Often shaded inner leaves drop thus weakening the vigor of the plant.

Two other hollies are worth noting. The Chinese holly "Ilex cornuta"—native to Eastern China and Korea, has shiny, irregular-shaped leaves that makes a bushy, dense and rounded shrub. Like the English holly, it has bright red fruit and glossy foliage. This variety grows to about eight to ten feet tall and just about as wide.

The Meserve hollies "Ilex x Meservcae" include cultivars like Blue Prince, Blue Princess, Blue Angel, Blue Girl, Blue Boy and others. They are called the blue hollies because of the deep bluish-green leaves.

The Meserve hybrids are very hardy. They have red berries, the bright glossy leaf surface characteristic of their English holly parent and some of the Japanese holly leaf shape. After about 15 years some have reached 12 to 15 feet high with a width of 10 feet. They seem to be naturally pyramidal, a shape many gardeners try to force on the more open form of the American holly with pruning.

Lastly, if planting your holly outdoors, only the female plants are capable of producing red berries. It's suggested that you plant a male in among your female hollies, or plant the male hollies at the back of your property for optimum pollination. Half the reason for planting hollies is to enjoy their beautiful berries, so remember to plant both.

Holiday Baking

Holiday Baking Checklist

•Select a few favorite recipes and one or two new ones. Review each recipe carefully and take an inventory of ingredients and staples. Be sure to stock up on any missing items before baking day to avoid last-minute dashes to the store.

•Check the use-by dates on baking powder and baking soda; replenish any that are past the expiration date.

•Clear off counter tops and the kitchen table so you'll have enough space to spread out. Set up stations for mixing, shaping/rolling, cooling and decorating.

•Pull out the mixer and appropriate baking pans and cookie sheets, measuring cups, measuring spoons, and any other equipment called for before you start baking.

•Use only the highest quality ingredients, like pure extracts, fresh large eggs and pure, natural butter. You can taste the difference.

•Don't use whipped butter for baking. Measurements will not be equal because whipped butter contains more moisture and air.

•Printed measurements on sticks of butter make measuring easy and convenient. Good-to-know butter equivalents are: 1 pound, 4 sticks, 2 cups, (32 tablespoons); ½ pound, 2 sticks, 1 cup, (16 tablespoons); ¼ pound, 1 stick, ½ cup, (8 tablespoons); ⅛ pound, ½ stick, ¼ cup, (4 tablespoons).

Storing Butter

Refrigerator: Unopened butter in the original package keeps for several weeks in the refrigerator at 39°F or lower.* Opened butter should be stored, covered, in the refrigerator butter compartment.

Freezer: Butter in its original package and wrapped in foil or placed in a resealable plastic freezer bag keeps for six to nine months at 0°F or lower.

*Because salt helps extend butter's shelf life, unsalted butter is best kept frozen until ready to use.

Storing, Packaging and Freezing Cookies

•Cool cookies completely before storing in airtight containers or they will become soggy.

•Store only one kind of cookie in each container. Moist cookies packed with crisp ones can cause the crisp cookies to soften; highly flavored cookies such as gingersnaps can transfer flavors to delicately flavored cookies such as shortbread.

•Store frosted or decorated cookies with waxed paper between layers to protect them.

•If bar cookies are to be eaten immediately, they can be stored in the baking pan. Keep tightly covered.

•Most cookies freeze beautifully. Freeze fragile cookies in sturdy cookie tins with waxed paper between layers. Package sturdier varieties in heavy-duty freezer bags or airtight containers.

•Label containers with a ballpoint pen or waterproof marker. Include the type of cookie, quantity and the date.

•Thaw cookies at room temperature in their container or wrapping.

BERRY-ALMOND BARS

1 cup butter, softened
½ cup confectioners' sugar
2¼ cups all-purpose flour
1 10-ounce jar seedless raspberry jam or any flavor
¾ cup sliced almonds, lightly toasted
Confectioners' sugar (optional)

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. In large mixing bowl, cream butter and sugar until light and fluffy. Gradually add flour, beating on low speed until well blended. With floured fingertips, press dough evenly onto bottom of 15x10x1-inch baking pan. Bake 18 to 20 minutes until light golden brown. Cool on rack 15 minutes.

Stir jam gently to blend; spread evenly over crust. Sprinkle almonds evenly over jam. Bake 10-13 minutes, just until jam begins to bubble around edges. Cool completely on wire rack. Cut into bars or other shapes. If desired, sprinkle with confectioners' sugar just before serving. Yield: 5 dozen.

Variations: Chocolate-Drizzled Bars: Melt ¾ cup semisweet chocolate pieces or white chocolate pieces according to package directions. Transfer to small resealable bag; seal tightly. Snip small hole in one corner of bag. Squeeze thin lines of chocolate over cookies. Let set 30 minutes; cut into bars.

Almond Glazed Bars: Mix together ¾ cup confectioners' sugar, 1 to 1½ tablespoons milk or cream and ¼ teaspoon almond extract until smooth; drizzle over cookies. Let set 30 minutes; cut into bars.

A delightful display of cookies makes holiday entertaining inviting.

NUTMEG BUTTER THINS

3 cups all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon ground nutmeg
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup (2 sticks) butter, softened
⅔ cup granulated sugar
⅓ cup firmly packed brown sugar
1 egg
2 teaspoons vanilla

Combine flour, nutmeg and salt; mix well. Set aside. In large mixing bowl, cream butter and sugars until light and fluffy. Beat in egg and vanilla. Add flour mixture; mix well. Divide dough in half. Shape each half into a roll about 10 inches long and 1½ inches in diameter. Wrap each roll in plastic wrap; chill at least 3 hours or overnight.

Preheat oven to 400°F. Work with one roll of dough at a time, leaving remaining dough wrapped and refrigerated. With sharp knife, cut roll into ¼ -inch thick slices. Place 1 inch apart on cookie sheets. Bake 8 to 10 minutes or until edges are light golden brown. Remove to wire rack; cool completely.

Yield: about 6 dozen.

Variations

Spice Butter Thins: Reduce nutmeg to ½ teaspoon and add 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon and ¼ teaspoon ground cloves to flour mixture.

Nutty Butter Thins: Stir 1 cup toasted, finely chopped pecans or hazelnuts into dough before shaping. Or, roll shaped dough in 1 cup toasted, finely chopped nuts before chilling.

Sugar 'N' Spice Butter Thins: Sprinkle sliced cookies with cinnamon-sugar or nutmeg-sugar before baking.

Note: Rolls of cookie dough can be wrapped airtight and refrigerator up to 2 weeks or frozen up to 6 months. Thaw frozen dough overnight in the refrigerator. Slice and bake as directed above.

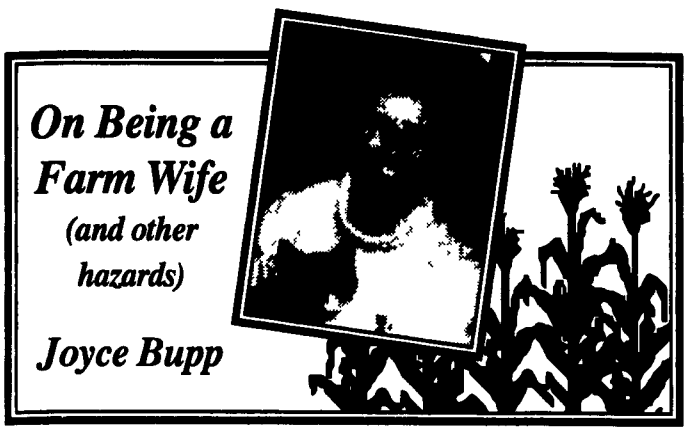
CHOCOLATE PIXIES

¼ cup butter
2 ounces unsweetened chocolate
2 eggs
1 cup sugar
1½ cups all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup chopped walnuts
Confectioners' sugar

Melt butter and chocolate in a heavy saucepan over low heat. Beat eggs and sugar in a large mixer bowl. Gradually mix in chocolate mixture. Combine flour, baking powder, and salt, gradually add to chocolate mixture. Stir in walnuts. Chill dough at least one hour.

Preheat oven to 300 degrees. Shape dough into one-inch balls. Roll in confectioners' sugar. Place on buttered cookie sheets. Bake 15 to 18 minutes. Cool completely on wire racks.



Few things are more commonplace, necessary — and underfoot — on a farm than cats.

While most farms have a dog or two, few have only a cat or two. Cats — being cats — tend to perpetuate themselves with reliable regularity. Our populaton over the years has ranged from lows of three or four to a one-time high of 30-plus, which was absolutely too many. Mostly, we hover in the range of 10 to a dozen, scattered among the barns and bales. And underfoot.

Over the years, we have been rather discriminating about the color of our cats. Partial to black, black and white and gray-black tigers (perhaps because of the heavy Holstein-color influence in our lives), we have long-standing bloodlines of "Holstein" felines.

What we have not had over the years are the orange "Morris The Cat" types. As a youngster, The Farmer lost a batch of 4-H baby chicks to a big, orange tomcat, which skewed his appreciation for Morris clones.

But inbreeding of our black and white cats eventually resulted in a generation that was more frail than their ancestors, with apparent reproductive problems. Down to one mother cat about two years ago, we found our cat numbers diminishing.

Then we began seeing a robust, orange-furred visitor streaking out of distant corners of the barn when we entered. And, sure enough, the next kittens born were multi-hued calicos. Another line with golden tint arrived with the donation from a friend of a striped gray tiger with sunny undertones — and orange siblings.

This spring's kitten litter brought us a mottled assortment, including a handsome orange and white male and a gentle, cream-colored female I dubbed Creme. Soon after, an apparently-homeless but friendly, dark-yellow fellow moved in off the street. Plus, we adopted a chubby, beautifully-marked dark tiger named Zebo. (Short for Zebra.)

Zebo snuggled up against my neck, purred with a passion and turned up at every corner while I did barn chores. He's identical to a tiger-striped Butch the kids loved years ago, so it was natural to just call him Butch.

Once again we have a plentiful supply of cats. Underfoot.

There were about six dancing 'round my feet for milk just this morning — cats of all colors. Kittens scamper back into the haymow when you enter the bank barn — including a long-haired yellow and a long-haired gray. A dormant, long-haired bloodline has apparently resurfaced in our cat genetics.

Pest, the overly-friendly gray and white male, has taken to sleeping in the barrel of sawdust in the calf nursery. Foxy, our old, long-haired, dairy-barn cat, spends most of his time curled up in the utility room, warmed by the motors and compressors of our milking/cooling systems.

Butch is everywhere. With his head stuck in a bucket of fresh milk. In the calves' feed trough, sharing their sweet feed. Curled up in hayracks in cozy nests of dry grass and alfalfa.

We find cat prints on papers on the barn office desk and cats perched atop the feed racks in the heifer pens. Cats curled in tight balls in the haymow of calf alfalfa. Cats basking in the morning sunshine that floods into the south-facing, outside calf condos.

And a cat rattling the back storm door. I put the housecat outside and forgot to let her back in immediately. Her outside maximum time in cold weather is under two minutes. So she rattles the door with her paw and grumbles indignantly when I finally respond.

So with all these cats underfoot, why do we have the putrefying smell of dead mouse reeking from the basement ceiling?

THE FRUITCAKE HATER'S FRUITCAKE

3 large navel oranges
1 cup dried cranberries
¾ cup golden raisins
½ cup each: currants, dried apricots, chopped
2 cups granulated sugar
1 cup butter, at room temperature
4 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
3 cups all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon ground cinnamon
¼ teaspoon each: ginger, nutmeg
1 cup buttermilk
1 cup chopped walnuts

Icing:

8-ounces cream cheese, room temperature
6 tablespoons confectioners' sugar
Dried fruit (for garnish, optional)

Preheat oven to 325 degrees. Butter and flour 10-inch tube pan. Grate the zest from oranges to make 3 tablespoons for cake and 2 teaspoons for icing. Squeeze oranges to yield ⅔ cup juice for cak and ¼ cup for icing. Set aside. In medium saucepan, combine dried cranberries, raisins, currants, apricots, and ⅔ cup orange juice. Bring to a boil; reduce heat and simmer 5 minutes or until fruit is plumped. Drain well; set aside.

In large mixer bowl, cream sugar and butter until light and fluffy. Add eggs, one at a time; beat well. Add 3 tablespoons grated orange zest and vanilla; beat well. Alternately add combined dry ingredients and buttermilk to creamed mixture, beginning and ending with flour mixture. Stir in walnuts and fruit. Pour batter into prepared pan. Bake about 1 hour and 15 minutes or until golden brown and a wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool in pan 10 minutes. Remove to wire rack; cool completely.

For icing, beat together cream cheese and confectioners' sugar until smooth. Add ¼ cup orange juice and 2 teaspoons orange zest; beat well. Spread icing on top of cake. Garnish with additional dried fruit, if desired.

Note: Cake can be made 5 days ahead; cover and refrigerate. Bring to room temperature 30 minutes before serving. To freeze, wrap tightly in freezer wrap, heavy-duty aluminum foil or plastic freezer-safe bags. Freeze up to 2 months. Defrost in refrigerator; bring to room temperature 30 minutes before serving.

AUNT EVELYN'S MOLASSES COOKIES

14 cups flour
4 cups sugar
2 cups butter
2 cups molasses
5 eggs, beaten
3½ tablespoons baking soda
½ cup boiling water
1 pound dates, chopped
1 pound seedless raisins
1½ teaspoon salt
1 egg, beaten to spread on top of unbaked cookies

Sift flour and sugar. Add butter and salt. Mix with hands as for pie dough. Add molasses, beaten eggs, boiling water in which baking soda has been dissolved. Beat. Cook dates and seedless raisins in 1½ cups water until water evaporates. Cool. Add raisin and date mixture to molasses mixture. Mix well. Refrigerator dough overnight. Grease cookie sheets. Roll about ½ cup dough on lightly floured surface until you have a long thin sausage shape. Place three pieces on cookie sheet lengthwise. Press dough down all along the rolls. Brush with beaten egg. Bake at 350 degrees for 12-15 minutes until light brown. Cut into desired size. Cool. Makes about 275 cookies.

When I tasted these at my aunt's house, I knew that I needed this recipe. The cookies are delicious and soft. Store them in tight containers.

You know the saying that you can't eat one potato chip—it's the same with these cookies.

2 cups milk
½ cup cooked pumpkin
Combine ingredients and cook as directed on package.

Follow The Star

For a real-life re-inactment of the birth of Jesus, follow the star to the Fred Heller farm in Lititz. The brightly shining star is erected 140 feet above the barn where angels hover in the rafters above the manger scene. Wisemen lead a real camel down the hillside and into the rustic barn where donkeys, sheep, and goats mingle. Hammer Creek Mennonite Youth Group sponsors the event on Dec. 15-17, with two showings each evening at 7:00 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. No admission fee is charged. From Lititz, take 501 N., follow the star to Brubaker Valley Road East, first farm on the right.

Stages Of A (Cut And Wrapped) Christmas Tree

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

MOHRSVILLE (Berks Co.) — While working on his family's Christmas tree farm, Devin Potts, 8, said his favorite machine is the one that drills a hole into the stump of a tree.

The hole, drilled in the middle of the stump end, helps center the tree in the tree stand. The tree is nourished through the hole from water in the stand.

Devin's brother, Wesley, 10, likes the electrical "tree shaker," which vibrates the tree.

The tree shaker removes all the debris on the tree, such as leaves and dead needles. Wesley uses his foot to press down on a pedal, like a car's gas pedal, to vibrate the tree for about 10 seconds or so.

Both like the tree wrapper, though. With help from the Cammauf brothers Justin and Brent, a tree is loaded to the back of the machine, top first. Wesley turns the crank, which moves the tree through a spindle. The spindle is pushed, winding twine around the tree — wrapping it well — by Devin.

The trees are then loaded onto a pickup for delivery to a customer.

The Potts brothers have a lot of other chores at Northwind Farm while the busy holiday tree cutting season is under way.

Both would like to cut some trees down when they get old enough. And they'd like to help their dad, Doug, and mom, Lynn, plant some trees someday.

Wesley and Devin help out as much as they can on the 20-acre Christmas tree farm. They help out a lot to ready the trees for the busy "cut your own" season in Mohrsville.

Before choosing a new tractor, follow one simple rule

ASK AN OWNER

Every new tractor comes loaded with promise. But one comes backed by proof. The 7200 Series MAGNUM.™ • After 50,000 MAGNUM tractors, farmers across the country have discovered the difference that true reliability, durability and performance can make.

A difference that has inspired a new brand of loyalty. MAGNUM loyalty. • Loyalty built on late nights at full throttle in heavy soil, running hard against the weather. On hot afternoons, rim-deep in hard labor.On hectic spring mornings, squeezing three weeks of planting into a two-week schedule. Those are the times that a tractor shows its true colors. And those are the times that MAGNUM excels.Year in, year out, for owner after owner.

• From 130 to 215 PTO hp, there's a MAGNUM to fit any farm. If you want to know more, ask your dealer. Better yet, Ask An Owner.

To launch the new "got milk?" advertising campaign, the American Dairy Association and Dairy Council organized a "got milk?" patrol in New York City to search for real-life milk drinkers. Rollerblading milkmen searched popular city hangouts and took photos of people found drinking milk. Three lucky milk drinkers will be selected to have their face featured on a "got milk?" billboard in their hometown.

CEDAR KNOLLS, NJ — How do you create regional awareness for the largest advertising campaign your organization has ever launched?

If your product is milk, you deliver the message in person with ten skating milkmen in tow.

In an innovative marriage of public relations and advertising, the American Dairy Association and Dairy Council, Inc. (ADADC) sent ten professional in-line skaters, dressed in the white garb of traditional milkmen, to beat the streets of Manhattan in search of real-life milk drinkers. The event, held on September 28, kicked off the local release of the award-winning "got milk?" advertising campaign and was aimed at raising awareness of the campaign in the New York metropolitan area.

The milkmen and women glided through four popular Manhattan hangouts in search of the "got milk?" face of the 90's. Those who were found with the great white — or chocolate — beverage were photographed and became eligible to be one of three winners whose face will be featured on a billboard in their hometown area.

"You have to take chances in this business in order to get attention," said Brenda Beltram, Director of Public Relations for ADADC. "But, you also have to plan events that are unusual, fun and offer a wide variety of pre-event and post-event publicity opportunities. In this case, the pre-event publicity was so strong that we even had cab drivers pulling up to the sites, showing us that they had milk."

In spite of competition from the much-publicized O.J. Simpson trial, which was in closing arguments at the time of the event, the milkmen did catch the attention of many New York City media gatekeepers. The skating milkmen were the talk of the town on radio stations from easy listening to alternative rock and were featured multiple times on two of the market's top three morning shows. One station dubbed the skating milkmen event, "the best thing to happen to New York next to the Pope's visit." UPI and AP wire services ran the information and print coverage of the event extended from midtown to the outer boroughs.

According to Beltram, events such as the "got milk?" face of the 90's search, wth multiple publicity angles, are the most effective in reinforcing a message through the media. In addition to the unique opportunity to see ten skating milkmen, this event also marked the launch of the largest fluid milk advertising campaign ever initiated by ADADC and offered an opportunity for local people to be featured as part of a national advertising campaign. The contest itself was a story perfect for pre-event covrage, and the image of a 90's-style milkman on in-line skates was a great visual for print. At the event, a survey was taken to find out what each participant's favorite snack with milk was for a post-event survey release. In short, the event offered something for every editorial appetite.

Because of the event's success, ADADC has plans to host other appearances by the skating milkmen and may tie them in to future sponsorship activities to generate awareness both about the campaign and about the overall benefits of drinking milk.

American Dairy Association and Dairy Council's "got milk?" patrol of rollerblading milkmen "caught" this New Yorker drinking milk at Rockefeller Center. The "got milk?" patrol searched popular city hangouts for real-life milk drinkers to launch milk's new advertising campaign. Anyone found drinking milk had their photo taken and became eligible to have their face featured on a "got milk?" billboard in their hometown.

As we head into winter, I find that I'm still busy even though our gardens have finished producing. Now other things seem to crowd our days.

One day we are asked to volunteer at church and help put together an Advent booklet of devotions written by church members. Then another day we visit a housebound relative in another county. We share frozen fruit and they give fresh apples and cider that they made.

In the middle of the week, we go to New Jersey with a group to Hunterdon Hills Playhouse to see a play and have a meal. We had a wide choice of entrees but as usual we chose seafood as that is something that we don't have very often at home unless I catch some in the Conestoga River. As our son butchers pigs and a steer, that is what fills our freezers. Chicken is something that I buy when it is on sale at the store.

Recently, I relived what I did years ago on the farm. You see, some mornings I would clean and dress six or more chickens. What reminded me of this was doing a duck before Thanksgiving day.

It is so easy to fall into the habit of buying convenience foods. The one thing that I buy is canned soup for a Sunday meal. Otherwise, when I make a pumpkin pie, I start with a pumpkin from the garden. And, when I make filling, I cut up bread and let it dry before using it. I've also dried my own corn and grown my own sweet potatoes. The pickles and jellies are homemade too and I like to tell our guests that almost everything but the cranberries are homegrown.

Real Christmas Trees

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Consumers seeking to purchase Christmas trees will find an abundant supply of quality, Pennsylvania-grown trees at retail outlets and choose-and-cut farms, according to Agriculture Secretary Charles C. Brosius.

"Pennsylvania is one of the top five Christmas tree producing states in the nation," Brosius said. "Over 100 on-farm retail tree lots and choose-and-cut farms will provide consumers with a selection of the freshest, highest quality trees available."

Two dozen varieties of Christmas trees are grown in Pennsylvania. Douglas fir, Scotch pine, White pine, Blue spruce and Norway spruce are long-time favorites, with more exotic varieties like the Fraser fir gaining in popularity.

Quality Christmas trees have bright, green color and a fresh scent. To help determine freshness in a pre-cut tree, run your hands down one of the boughs of the tree. If many needles fall off, the tree may have begun drying out.

Consumers can get help making their selections by using free "Facts and Information about Pennsylvania Christmas Trees" and "Where to Select Your Pennsylvania Grown Christmas Tree" guides offered by the Pennsylvania Christmas Tree Growers Association. To receive the guides, mail a stamped, self-addressed, business size envelope to the Pennsylvania Christmas Tree Growers Association, 44 Cessna Drive, Halifax, PA 17032.

Glass Harmonica

DOVER, Del. — Few have seen it and even fewer can play it, but visitors to the Delaware Agricultural Museum and Village's A Farmer's Christmas will have the opportunity to see and hear this incredible instrument.

Invented by Benjamin Franklin and popular through the 1890s and early 1900s, playing the glass harmonica takes special talent and perseverance. Dean Shostak of Williamsburg, Va. is a master of it.

A Farmer's Christmas also offers other turn-of-the-century holiday music throughout the lantern lit village, storytelling in woodstove heated buildings, and demonstrations.

A Farmer's Christmas runs Thursday, Friday and Saturday, December 7-9, from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m.

The Delaware Agricultural Museum and Village is located south of Delaware State University on Rt. 13 in Dover. Information on this and other events is available by calling (302) 734-1618.

Magical Mechanical Marvels

DOVER, DE—The Delaware Agricultural Museum and Village is turning into Santa's toy shop this holiday season with a special exhibit of antique mechanical toys, Magical Mechanical Marvels. These wonders of turn-of-the-century toy technology will be on display at the Museum from November 24 to the end of the year. Selected from the Museum's collection as well as other institutions and private collections, these playthings will delight the child in all of us.

See toys for all ages and from a wide span of time including the 1880s and going through the 1940s. Discover what we've lost to our modern batteries, electronics, and plastics through these ingenious, kid-powered toys. No batteries, no chips, only fun and imagination!

The Delaware Agricultural Museum and Village, a private, non-profit organization, is located just south of Delaware State University on Rt. 13 in Dover. Admission is charged. Information on this exhibit and others at the Museum is available by calling (302) 734-1618.

Christmas In Lititz Tour

LITITZ (Lancaster Co.) — Christmas in Lititz Tour of Homes will be held Saturday, December 9, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Eight area homes are open for tour. Each is decorated by local floral designers.

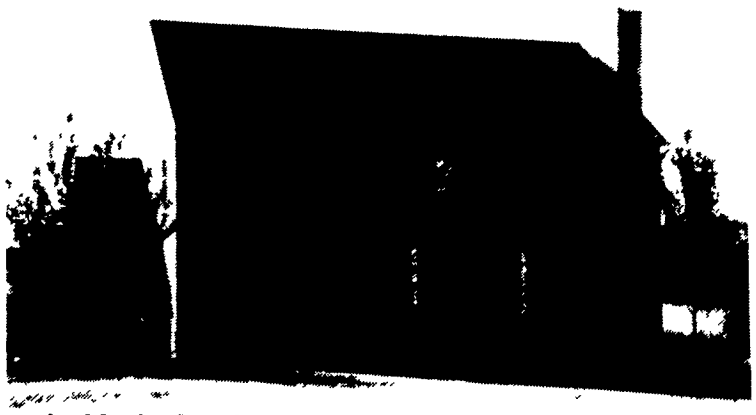
Tickets in advance are $6, on the day of the tour, $7. For tickets, call (717) 626-4588.

Joyce and Robert Bomberger Sr. live in a two-story farmhouse style house at 190 Bomberger Rd. Although the home was built in 1992, it uses many materials from the past. Throughout the house are log beams, windows and doors saved from Grandpa Bomberger's house. The extra wide door into the master bedroom was the back door of the old house. With close observation you will see a hobo's drawing of a young maiden's profile. Also notice the window sections built into the wall of the office.

In the kitchen breakfast nook notice the ceiling boards, these were taken from the dining room and are just as they were years ago. The dining room floor is boards from the attic, the widest board is 21 inches. Original light fixtures are also throughout the house.

Every room has a piece of furniture made by Joyce's father, a retired woodworker. Every room contains special points of interest from the braided rug made by Bob's great grandmother Emma about 75 years ago, to the wine set in the dining room, a wedding gift to Great Grandma Emma.

Holiday decorations are by Rhoda Oberholtzer.



Inside the Bomberger home, open for tour, are unusual doors, floor boards, and lights preserved from previous generations of the family.

Make the rivers deep again Rain,
Please don't let me weep again
Shower your blessings on me.

The sheep in the corn.
They know that something is wrong.
Old mother earth can never give birth
When you're away so long
Rain, make it green in Lover's Lane Rain
For my gal and me again.
Shower your blessings on me.

IS BIGGER BETTER?

Roland M. Leach, Jr.
Professor Of Poultry Science

Recently, Jeremy Rifkin was on the Penn State Campus to deliver a lecture on "The Decline of the Global Economy."

That is not the topic of this article but rather one of Mr. Rifkin's previous causes — the use of biotechnology in agriculture.

His primary goal was to prevent the use of biotechnology-derived products such as the use of BST to enhance milk production in dairy cows.

A similar theme will be discussed at the conference sponsored by the Agricultural Directorate of the European Commission. The intent of this conference is to review the use of growth-promoting substances in animal husbandry.

The above conference will deal very little with poultry since steroids and hormones are not used to enhance the performance of poultry. That's the good news. The bad news is that we don't need growth-enhancing substances due to the success of our genetic selection programs.

This point is apparent in a recent report from North Carolina State University. These researchers determined the relative contribution of genetic selection and advances in nutrition on the performance of broilers.

Contemporary feeding programs and broiler strains were compared with those in use 35 years ago. Improved nutrition accounted for an increase of 18 percent in performance. On the other hand, genetic selection resulted in birds that grew three and one-half times faster than those of 35 years ago.

This emphasizes the fact that the poultry industry has been able to make great strides in improving performance through genetic selection. One of the reasons that growth-enhancing drugs are not used is that they are not very effective or useful to the poultry industry. Further, the downside of the progress attained by genetic selection has been the increase in the incidence of metabolic disorders associated with rapid growth rate.

For example, in the North Carolina study, the "old fashioned" chicken had an incidence of tibial dyschondroplasia of 1.2 percent. This is in contrast to 49 percent incidence of the "modern" chicken fed modern diets. Half of this increase in tibial dyschondroplasia could be attributed to the "improved" nutrition associated with modern broiler feed.

The above observation brings me to the final point of this discussion. Although the poultry industry does not rely on drugs and hormones to enhance performance, it is beginning to be attacked for the success of its genetic selection programs.

Animal welfare activists would like to see restrictions on selection for growth rate coupled with increased emphasis on selection for the absence of metabolic diseases such as tibial dyschondroplasia and ascites. In fact, slow-growing broilers are now being marketed in France and the United Kingdom for consumers with welfare and culinary concerns.

It will be interesting to see whether this trend will be adopted by the poultry industry in the United States where it has been a tradition that "bigger is better."

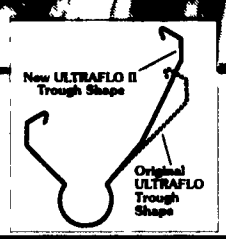
New Shape
The difference is the shape of the feeder's trough (at right). ULTRAFLO II's higher trough lip reduces feed waste by keeping it in the trough and not on the floor or in the pit.



The Right Choice in cage feeders

Chore-Time's popular ULTRAFLO® Cage Feeding System is now even more outstanding! We've developed and tested the second generation of ULTRAFLO feeders and named it the ULTRAFLO® II.

ULTRAFLO II offers you even greater reliability, durability, and outstanding feed-saving performance—up to 1 gram of feed per bird per day—over the original ULTRAFLO. And even the original ULTRAFLO was beating our competitors in feed savings!

So, join the cage feeding leader. Contact us today. Find out how Chore-Time and ULTRAFLO II can help you be a leader, too!

N.Y. Milk Processors Market Certified Organic

PORT CRANE, N.Y.—The Northeast Organic Farming Association of New York, Inc. (NOFA-NY) has announced the completion of the organic certification process of two New York milk processors.

Mountainside Farms, Inc., of Jamaica, N.Y. and Sunnydale Farms, Inc., of Brooklyn, N.Y., have received certification as processors of organic milk and have begun the marketing of organic milk.

Mountainside Farms, Inc. is marketing certified organic milk under the brand name of Juniper Valley Organic Milk. Sunnydale Farms, Inc., is marketing certified organic milk under the brand name of Natural by Nature.

Along with the two milk processors, three N.Y. dairy farms have completed the NOFA-NY farm certification process. They are Alan Babcock, Speckle Acres Farm, Burlington Flats, N.Y.; Warren Williams, Jr., Mar-War Farm, Burlington Flats, N.Y.; and Brian & Douglas Stetson, Eberezer Farm, Richfield Springs, N.Y. Each farm has completed the transition process to organic production, completed the application process and the farm inspection visit, and has begun shipping organically produced milk.

The certification of organic milk production in New York offers a fresh opportunity for many dairy farms by providing an alternative market for their milk. Sales of organic food products grew by 24 percent in 1994 and have increased by more than 20 percent annually for each of the past six years. Organic dairy products sales have risen 25 percent in the past two years. These impressive growth figures are balanced by reassuring signs of stability in the market. As they enter this strong market, milk processors are paying a premium price for certified organic milk.

The certification of organic milk production involves both land and dairy herd management. Land becoming certified must meet a minimum requirement of three years since the last application of synthetic herbicides, pesticides, and fertilizers.

Certification also involves the implementation of adequate buffer zones to insure that spray drift from adjoining conventionally farmed fields cannot contaminate the crops and soils of certified fields. Certification of dairy cattle requires certified organically grown feeds, limitations on the use of medications, extended withdrawal times after medication use, and pasturing of cattle. Dairy cattle must be fed certified organically grown grains and forages and adhere to all other certification standards for a minimum of 90 days prior to shipping certified organic milk.

Both Mountainside Farms, Inc. and Sunnydale Farms, Inc., are seeking additional farms to work toward certification of organic milk production.

For more information on dairy certification, contact Patricia Kane, Adminstrator of the NOFA-NY Certification Program, at 472 Monkey Run Road, Port Crane, NY 13833, (607) 648-5557.

FOOD PROCESSING WASTES AND BY-PRODUCT FEEDS

We have been getting a considerable number of requests lately about the use of food processing and by-product feeds for beef cattle. This usually occurs when the price of grain goes up and alternative, cheaper feeds are sought.

It is extremely hard to generalize about these feeds and what they can do for cattlemen, but there are a few comments that should be made.

These topics include:

• Nutritional value: the only way to determine if these feeds are economically sound is to know the nutritional value. This can only be accomplished with a laboratory analysis, and this should be provided by the seller. Of particular importance is the dry matter content because many of these feeds are high in water and this value must be subtracted from the total value both as a transportation cost and as a reduction in nutrient density.

• Variation in nutritional value: it would be a good idea to actually see where and how the by-product feed is generated to determine the variability of the nutritional value. The best example is the cattle feeder who was feeding some potato chip waste, but noticed that his cows went off feed every Monday. A little investigation found that the processor dumped his grease in with the waste every Friday, thus throwing the cattle off feed. In some cases the products that are available may vary considerably from one day to the next. This variation must be accounted for in the cost of the product and in the formulation of rations.

• The presence of foreign objects: this is particularly important when feeding waste material from canneries. Metal and/or glass objects will often find their way into the waste in these operations. Feeders who consistently use these products will have a strong magnet attached to an auger to capture the metal objects. Some consideration should also be given to material that may have been treated with pesticides or other chemicals that could still be present in the material.

• Adaptability to a feeding system: there are some products that may simply be more trouble than they are worth. A good example is the cattle feeder that depends on an auger system to deliver feed to a mixer wagon. One such feeder I heard of tried using some waste candy bars and spent a lot of time cleaning candy out of his augers. Moisture level of the feed is also an important consideration, particularly because dry matter intake could be compromised when other high moisture stored feeds are part of the ration.

• Storage life and requirements: the moisture content of many of these feeds dictates oxygen-limiting storage for any length of time. This facility may not be available. Temporary storage, such as in silo bags, is always a possibility, but some byproducts will require the addition of some dry material to make the bags work properly. Daily supply of some products, such as cull potatoes, may be small enough that no storage is needed.

• Ration limitations: because of a number of factors, many by-product feeds have a maximum ration value. The following table shows some commonly used by-product feeds and their maximum dry matter value of the ration:

By-Product Feed	Maximum Ration	Dry Matter %
apple pomance	25
broiler litter		35
fresh carrots		20
wet corn gluten feed	50
dry corn gluten feed	90
cottonseed hulls		40
thin stillage	10
bakery waste	20
wet brewers grain		30
dry brewers grain		30
cookies	25
cull beans		25
potato byproduct		15
whole soybeans	25

• Fermentation rate: many byproduct feeds have high energy values and may be cost-competitive with corn. There is a difference, however, in the source of the energy. Potato chips, for example, have a high energy value, but the source of the energy is fat and high starch. This changes the fermentation rate of these feeds for ruminants. Feeds with higher fermentation rates require more precise ration formulation, possible additions of sodium bicarbonate, and better bunk management.

• Opportunity costs: the value of any of these feeds is based on its comparable value with a traditional feedstuff. Some byproduct protein feeds are of the "high by-pass" variety and would have an advantage in rations under certain circumstances. For the cow herd, the protein values on a unit of crude protein must be compared with a conventional source such as soybean meal. Be sure to include all the costs of using the product including additional transportation, storage, feeding, labor, and "aggravation" factors.

Some specific feeding management to consider:

• Watch out for glass and metal in canned vegetable waste.

• Do not mix urea with apple pomace and ensile the material. This has caused abortions when fed to pregnant cows.

• Know something about the history of herbicide and pesticide use on fresh vegetable and fruits. For example, frosted vegetables that were recently sprayed with a pesticide may have excessive residue.

• Poultry litter may contain high levels of some heavy metals, particularly copper. Many areas already have high levels of copper in the drinking water, and this could increase the intake of copper to toxic levels. Have the litter analyzed for nutrient content as well as copper levels.

• Corn gluten feed usually contains high levels of phosphorus and care must be taken to be sure the calcium:phosphorus ratio is correct when using high amounts of this feed in the ration.

• Potato chips are high in salt, so care must be taken to regulate the amount of the material in the diet to no more than 15-20 percent. This will prevent problems with ionophore use with the high salt levels, as well as regulate fat content in the diet.

Many food processors are paying for the removal and disposal of their waste. Much of this material has value as cattle feed, but care must be taken to account for all of the costs of its use.

Seminar Attracts Pork Producers

ELIZABETHTOWN (Lancaster Co.) — A 21st Century Pork Production Seminar attracted more than 80 pork producers and industry representatives to The Country Table Restaurant in Mount Joy recently.

The day-long educational event, organized by White Oak Mills Inc., focused on aggressive approaches for independent producers to become more efficient and competitive in the changing industry.

Mick Evans, pork production specialist from the United Kingdom, served as White Oak Mills' guest speaker. Working as a production consultant in Europe and the U.S. for private and company clients, Evans led a presentation, "How to Compete with the Mega-Producers." In addition, he provided insight into the pork production industry worldwide.

Other speakers included Dr. Dale Hendrickson, a Farmland, Ind. swine producer and consulting veterinarian who discussed "PRRS Reserch and Technology"; Dr. Henry Turlington, Carl S. Akey Inc.'s swine nutrition manager from Ohio, who addressed "Nutrition for the 21st Century"; and Andy Cooper, White Oak Mills' vice president of production, who spoke about "The State of the Industry" and "Finishing Production Tips."

Dr. Robert Graybill, a Pennsylvania private practitioner, joined the four seminar speakers for a question/answer panel discussion, which concluded the seminar.

Application System Reduces Odor

WAUSAU, Wis. — Calumet has unveiled the latest technology in field manure application systems with the introduction of the revolutionary Disk Application System.

Designed to reduce odor, the disk method of application also enjoys a higher percentage of nutrients retained as the manure is immediately covered.

The "power on" tool bar is adjustable for a variety of field conditions and requires substantially less horsepower than conventional injector systems. Models are available for both spreader and vacuum tanks.

Branch Holds Open House

LEWISTOWN (Mifflin Co.) — Approximately 150 people visited the Lewistown Farm Credit branch office during an all-day Open House recently, which included a brief formal dedication and ribbon-cutting ceremony in the morning.

A large variety of quality door prizes were displayed. Tours of the newly constructed branch office were given by Dent Hawthorne, branch manager of the Lewistown branch office and his staff.

Farm Credit Presents Award

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — The Pennsylvania Association of County Agricultural Agents held its 1995 awards banquet here recently.

Pennsylvania Farm Credit presented the Search for Excellence Award to Jeff Fowler, extension agent from Venango County, and Patricia Gordon Anderson, extension agent from Clarion County. Pennsylvania Farm Credit sponsors this annual recognition given to county agents who excel in projects within their respective county.

Fowler and Anderson were both recognized for their work with 4-H and youth on a project that gave 4-H participants a chance to visit ag business companies to explore nontraditional career opportunities and report on their findings.

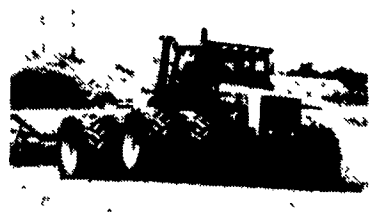
Tractor Offers High Horsepower, Innovative Design



The new Agcostar™ adds value and performance. With a choice between two engines, the operator will get maximum efficiency in the field.

ATLANTA, Ga. — AGCO's all-new Agcostar Model 8425 has been specifically designed with the latest in engineering technology to provide the large acreage producer with a comfortable, dependable and cost-efficient machine capable of increasing productivity while saving time in the field.

"The introduction of the Agcostar again reinforces our commitment to the North American farmers," said Steve Reiling, general marketing manager, Agcostar. "Our goal at Agco is to provide a wide range of quality products needed to satisfy the large variety of agricultural demands."

The 8425, rated at 425 horsepower, offers a clean design and sloping hood with the muffler and exhaust located on the side of the cab for an unobstructed view. Under the sleek styling, a massive, "C" channel high-strength steel front frame provides strong, durable engine and powertrain mountings, while the center frame with pivoting ball joints provides extra flexibility for a smooth ride and increased wheel traction. The full 35 degrees of steering angle makes for easier handling at headlands and maneuvering in the yard.

The choice of a Detroit Diesel Series 60 engine or a Cummins N14 engine allows the operator to match the tractor engine to their operation as well as to parts and service support available in their area.

"We chose these two engines, obviously, for their durability and excellent performance," said Reiling. "But one of the biggest factors was fuel economy. The two engines are electronically monitored to increase fuel economy and decrease operating costs."

The 18 forward and two reverse speed transmission provides seven working gears in the critical field operating range of three to eight mph.

Magnum Improves Tractor Standards

RACINE, Wis. — Every Case IH Magnum™ tractor produced by Case Corporation will perform better and run cleaner than ever before.

Case recently announced production plans for the tractors, which feature numerous improvements, to take the popular product line into 1996 and beyond.

Most notably, according to Mitch Kaiser, Case marketing manager-tractors, is that the Magnum tractors will meet all applicable Environmental Protection Agency standards without sacrificing tractor performance.

In fact, Kaiser said, they will perform even better.

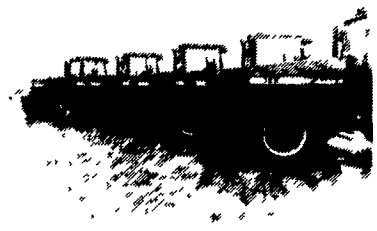
"We are very excited about the future of Magnum tractors," said Kaiser. "Through strenuous product engineering and development we were able to refine our durable, high-performance engines to comply with all 1996 emissions standards."

Jim McBain, Case director of environmental, health and safety, said the tractors were designed with the environment in mind.

Kaiser explained that engineers were able to design Magnum tractor engines to meet EPA requirements without complex air-to-air coolers and electronic systems.

PTO torque rise has been increased on the Magnum 7250 by seven percent; on the 7240 by three percent; on the 7230 by six percent; and on the 7220 by one percent. On the 7210, it will remain the same.

Electric over hydraulic engaged PTO is now incorporated with a built-in self-modulating engagement, providing a consistent and smooth modulated engagement regardless of engine RPM.



The new 1996 Case IH line of Magnum™ tractors offers farmers many improvements, including more performance and compliance with 1996 EPA standards.

Grain Cart Design

JEFFERSON, Iowa — Parker Industries is introducing its newly designed low profile, high capacity Model 810 grain cart.

It features a hydraulically driven drag auger (patent pending) in the bottom of the cart that provides fast and total cart cleanout. In addition, the hydraulic auger is mounted on the forward corner for excellent visibility and folds out of the way into a recessed panel on the side of the bed for easier handling.

The new cart design eliminates chains and sprockets, greatly reducing time spent on maintenance. A spotlight allows for after hours unloading.

Maryland Dairy Judging Team Nabs Collegiate Win

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — The University of Maryland at College Park dairy judging team seized its opportunity to shine by winning the senior collegiate dairy judging contest on Nov. 5 in Louisville, Ky.

Drawing upon its collective knowledge of cattle evaluation and expertise in oral reasons, the team captured the first title ever by a University of Maryland judging team at the North American Internaional Livestock Exposition.

Team members Sean Johnson from Daisy (Howard County), Mark Iager from Fulton (Howard County), Marie Speak from Taneytown (Carroll County) and Robert Fogle from Walkersville (Frederick County) evaluated and placed 10 classes of cattle and gave oral reasons to defend their placings in five of these classes.

Pitting their skills and knowledge in a field of 17 university teams, the Maryland competitors captured the following team awards: first in oral reasons, second in Ayrshire and Holstein judging, third in Guernseys, fifth in Jerseys and ninth in Brown Swiss.

Despite lack of a dairy farm background, Johnson, an animal sciences sophomore, was the first-place overall individual among 64 contestants. He also won top honors in the Holstein breed and seventh in oral reasons. Iager, a general agriculture sciences sophomore and past national 4-H dairy cattle judging winner, placed fifteenth overall. He also placed second in Ayrshire breed judging and ranked sevententh in oral reasons.

Speak, an agribusiness junior and member of a past national champion Maryland 4-H dairy cattle judging team, placed seventeenth as an individual. She ranked fourth in oral reasons and was second in Guernsey breed judging. Fogle, an animal sciences junior and past livestock judge, placed thirty-fifth overall individually, sixteenth in Ayrshire breed judging and thirtieth in oral reasons.

"I am extremely proud of the dedication and hard work that has been put forth by the team," said Dr. J. Lee Majeskie, extension dairy science specialist at the University of Maryland, who coached the team. Katharine Knowlton, graduate research assistant working on her Ph.D in animal nutrition, served as the assistant coach.

The College of Agriculture and Natural Resources, University of Maryland at College Park, helped fund the collegiate team's expenses. The team also received support from various individuals and agricultural organizations.

Tillage Event Sets Two-Night Program Topics

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — You won't have to drive far to participate in this year's 22nd annual Mid-Atlantic Conservation Tillage Conference.

Thanks to television satellite technology, the conference is being downlinked on Dec. 6 and 13 from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. at nearly 40 known locations in Pennsylvania, Maryland, and West Virginia.

Downlink sites also are a probability in New Jersey, New York, and Ohio.

In fact, anyplace in the United States with a satellite dish capable of picking up the KU band could be a downlink site, noted Milt Nelson, extension agricultural editor for the University of Maryland at College Park.

Nelson chaired the planning committee for this year's conference, which has departed from a 21-year tradition of a single meeting site that rotated on an annual basis between Maryland and Pennsylvania.

Telephone and fax machine hookups will permit live question-and-answer sessions following each televised presentation. Penn State University is the originating uplink site. Part of the Dec. 13 program will feature a live feed from Ohio State University.

Other program segments will present professional workers from Penn State, Virginia Tech, the University of Maryland and the U.S. Department of Agriculture, plus two West Virginia farmers.

To help provide financial support, interested agribusiness organizations have been invited to submit two-minute "infomercial" film clips that will be included in the satellite broadcast each night.

Here is the schedule of topics and speakers for Dec. 6:

• "No-Till Forage/Pasture Renovation" — Dr. Harlan E. White, extension forage specialist at Virginia Tech, and Lynn D. Hoffman, agronomy superintendent at Penn State's Russell E. Larson Research Center near Rocksprings, Pa.

• "New Herbicides: What Worked and What Didn't Work in 1995" — Dr. William S. Curran, extension weed science specialist at Penn State

• "Planter and Drill Adjustment Maintenance" — Lynn D. Hoffman

• "What's New in Conservation Tillage This Year" — Joel C. Myers, state agronomist in Pennsylvania for the USDA's Natural Resources Conservation Service

• "Precision Farming: Here Now?" — USDA film.

The following topics and speakers are set for Dec. 13:

• "Row Cleaners and Strip Tillage" — Dr. Gregory W. Roth, extension corn management specialist, and Lynn D. Hoffman, agronomy farm superintendent, both from Penn State, plus two West Virginia farmers with practical experience

• "Soil Compaction: Causes and Remedies" — Randall C. Reeder, extension agricultural engineer, Ohio State University

• "Effects of High-Residue Farming on Plant Diseases" — Dr. Patrick E. Lipps, extension plant pathology specialist at Ohio State

• "Herbicide Resistance and New Herbicides for 1996" — Dr. Ronald L. Ritter, extension weed control specialist, University of Maryland at College Park.

Here are technical details for downlinking the conference:

Test pattern: 6:45 p.m. EST; program: 7 to 9 p.m.; KU band (horizontal polarity); Telstar 401, Transponder 12A; frequency: 12033 Mhz. To question speakers, call (800) PSU-1010 or send fax message to (814) 863-9877.

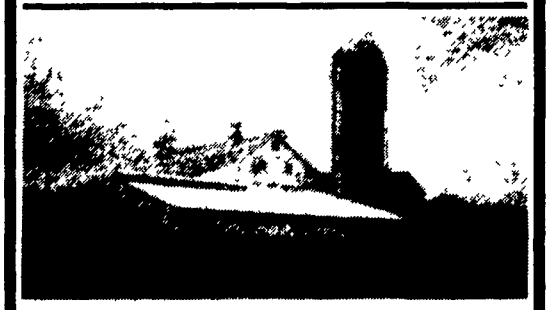
LAPP'S BARN EQUIPMENT
CURTAIN SYSTEMS



Lapp's Curtain System

Lapp's insulated curtains can help you make your farm more efficient. You can save up to 30% on your fuel/energy costs while maintaining a comfortable climate enables livestock to feed into live weight more efficiently, the curtain makes your barn warmer in winter and cooler in summer.

Our curtains are available in both 4 and 6 ply, both of which are faced with a impervious white vinyl layer which faces the elements. With all these benefits, the average payback is two years!

A lower cost alternative to the insulated curtains, are Lapp's single layer curtains. You still get all the benefits of using a high quality curtain to keep the elements outside and being able to lower the curtain to naturally ventilate in your barn.

THINK CONCRETE WHEN PLANNING YOUR FEED STORAGE!!

"This is the kind of silo you need to protect your valuable feed."

The major costs on dairy and livestock farms are related to FEED: production...harvesting...storage...purchases...delivery to animals. Significant savings in time and money are possible when you store and deliver your feed from a poured concrete silo.

"As margins narrow, dairymen need to invest in efficiency: This can have as great an influence on Profit as milk price changes."

Protect your valuable feeds from rain, sleet, snow, mud, ice, wind and the sun's heat. Reduce the stress. INCREASE THE EFFICIENCY OF YOUR FEEDS, LABOR, AND LIVESTOCK!

At Sollenberger Silos Corp. we know a lot about feed storage and handling; we've been in the business since 1908. If your plans call for new feed storage, give us a call...We'd like to contribute to your success!!

NO USED SILOS!
NO REBUILT SILOS!
NO PRE-OWNED SILOS!
ALL NEW FOR YOU.

The Proof is in the Process

The performance behind the Wheeling 2 oz Seal of Quality is possible because of Wheeling's patented Cook Norteman manufacturing process This technology allows a more consistent quality product, and a more uniform coating with unsurpassed zinc adhesion The process takes more handling and more time but the end result is a super premium panel that has its own limited 20 year performance warranty

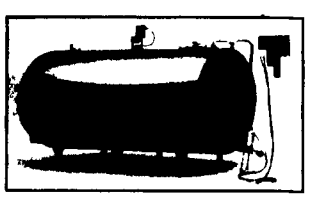
New in 1994



You may pay less for some dairy farm equipment... but it can cost you more!

Equipment cost is not the only cost of cooling milk

Example	Mueller	Competition
Cost of equipment	$31,000	$28,000
Cost of electricity @ .08 kW for 12,000 lbs milk/day for 10 years	$17,550	$22,850
Total operating cost for ten years	$48,550	$50,850
Savings	$ 2,300

The cleanest waterer ever invented!

Self-cleaning
The JUG is designed so that debris and feed are sucked up from the feed trap in the bowl with each watering; debris won't foul the water.

Low-maintenance
Light-tight design so that algae and odors won't build-up in The JUG's interior.

Animals adapt easily
The JUG is designed so that animals, even calves, can suck water naturally, no balls or flaps to get in the way.

The JUG

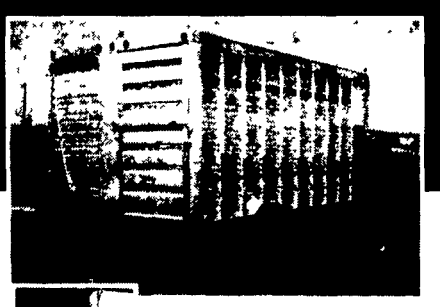
Agriculture Moves on EBY Bodies



M.H. Eby custom-builds aluminum truck bodies for the agri-transportation market. Nobody offers more sizes and options in:

- LIVESTOCK BODIES - Lengths to 32', choice of heights and widths.
- GRAIN BODIES - Lengths to 24'; landscape and general purpose dumps to 12'.
- FLATBED BODIES - Lengths to 32', choice of 5 widths.

For greater payload capacity, Eby's aluminum design is equal in strength to steel and up to 40% lighter. Our corrosion-resistant components never need painting. That means minimum maintenance, improved appearance and higher resale value.

Eby products have superior standard features. And we offer custom options for virtually any application. Agriculture is your business- building bodies to haul it is ours.

Let EBY custom build one for you.

December Pasture Walk Set

FREDERICK, Md. — The last pasutre walk of 1995 for Frederick County, Maryland will be held on Wednesday, Dec. 20, from 10 a.m. until noon. Peter and Marcie Vorac, Castle Hill Farm will be hosting the event.

The Voracs currently have about 20 Polled Hereford cows and 40 Suffolk sheep. Permanent pastures consist of fescue, orchardgrass, bluegrass, and clovers. Alfalfa, orchardgrass and timothy hay fields are also brought into the pasture system as required during dry weather and winter months.

Stockpiled forages, watering systems, and fencing will be discussed.

The purpose of the pasture walk is to allow livestock producers a chance to learn more about the use of rotational grazing as a way to increase agricultural profitability. Most of the time will be spent walking through the pastures discussing plant growth, fencing, watering systems, and animal performance.

Castle Hill Farm is located at 5814 Broad Run Road, Jefferson, Md. From Jefferson, take Broad Run Rd. (Rt. 383) north 2.3 miles to crossroad intersection. Turn right at intersection to continue on Broad Run Rd. 1.3 miles to the lane on the left. From Middletown, head south on Burkittsville Rd. (Rt. 17) approximately 3.4 miles. Turn left onto Broad Rd. (Rt. 383). Go one mile. Turn left onto Broad Run Rd. Go 4/10 mile to the lane on the right.

Two New Knight ProTwin Heavy Duty V Type Manure Spreaders In Stock At Binkley & Hurst Bros. For Immediate Delivery Retire Your Current Spreaders!

The 8000 Series ProTwin Slingers can handle a wider range of materials than any other spreader . . .

With the patented twin auger design, material circulates inside the unit This unique action helps keep the load level during normal operation as well as during start-up, fine spreading, and closed-door turns

As a result of the twin auger system and the steep angle sides, material bridging and excess forward movement of material are virtually eliminated, even in pen packed and sticky feed lot material

Examine the material flow in the illustration below and note that the left auger moves material forward to the discharge hammers The slightly raised right auger moves the material rearward while keeping the left auger evenly charged with material It is this patented circulating action that makes the ProTwin so effective in handling the toughest material encountered in most applications

Twin Auger Design History

The first ProTwin model, the Industrial 8030 unit, was introduced in the summer of 1993 The total acceptance of the ProTwin Slinger by agricultural and industrial operators in handling the toughest waste material has been phenomenal

Originally, the 8030 ProTwin was targeted for industrial use Today, the same design has been adapted to smaller models to meet the material handling needs of most applications All of these models handle a wide range of materials, from tough pen pack and sticky feed lot material to slurry types of manure, as well as difficult industrial materials

Front Drive Compartment*

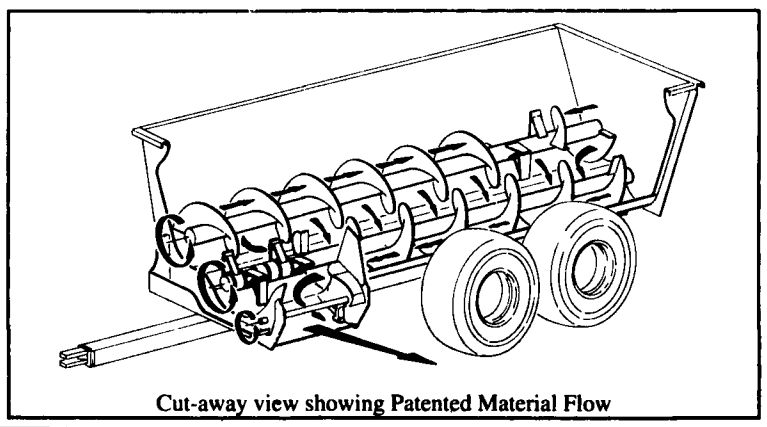
Simple Massive Reduction Drive

Each of the ProTwin models is designed for maximum, high torque output The fully sealed front oil bath enclosures help assure that chains and sprockets remain clean and well lubricated The auger and expeller shafts are sealed to help eliminate oil contamination Polyethylene-type spring loaded chain tighteners are used on all driveline chains for positive alignment and long life Bearings can easily be greased through the external grease banks without removing the front drive shield Splined shafts have been used in all high-torque areas to provide added strength and reliability

PTO Driveline

Constant Velocity PTO with Overload Clutch

Both 540 and 1000 RPM drivelines incorporate a constant velocity joint to provide a smooth transfer of power from the tractor to the unit This relieves uneven stress on the drive train during normal turns and during operation over uneven terrain The overload clutch provides protection for the expeller shaft and initial drive components (There is no shear pin in the expeller drive)



Cut-away view showing Patented Material Flow

Forged-Steel Hammer

Each hammer has a nylon bushing and a replaceable manganese steel wear plate

Hammer Discharge

Patented Free Swinging Hammer Expeller

The expeller on all ProTwin models features 15 forged steel hammers mounted on a 2 1/2" shaft. The hammers pivot on 5/8" bolts with nylon anti-seize type bushings that allow free movement The expeller rotates at over 800 RPM allowing each eight pound hammer to swing down into the material, peeling it off and slinging it underhand in a fine spread pattern with no clumps. The 3" wide, free swinging hammers absorb shock and tolerate most foreign objects. Each hammer is faced with a work-hardening manganese steel wear plate for longer life and low cost replacement The adjustable shroud allows easy hammer clearance setting for optimum spread pattern width. This proven hammer expeller design enables fine spreading control and material calibration through the combination of the hydraulic door opening and ground speed.

Rear Drive Compartment*

The right auger is driven at the rear and is shear pin protected. Bearings, chains and sprockets are easily accessible for routine maintenance.

Shields removed for illustration only*
Do not operate without shields in place and functioning

KINZE ROW UNITS THE KEY TO EARLY SEED GERMINATION

You start with a simple, dependable row unit design with easy adustments that give you exact depth control, and the most ideal seed-to-soil contact possible. At KINZE we call it "Precision Placement." Simply put, it's the toughest most dependable system in the field today.

How does it work? At the exact point of seed placement, 15" double disc openers and dual gauge wheels combine to mold a clean, consistent V-formed seed trench at a pre-set depth. Trailing V-closing wheels then securely press the seed trench walls on each side of the seed for positive seed-to-soil contact, virtually eliminating air pockets and leaving a loose "hill" of soil on top of the seed. It's the ideal environment for the emerging seeding.

Each row unit is independently adjustable for depth and down pressure. Spring-loaded parallel arms give you all the flexibility you need. Down pressure? Your choice. Standard, quick-adjustable dual springs for conventional planting, or quad springs (shown right) for conservation tillage. Each with four positions so you can set the unit's down force for your conditions.

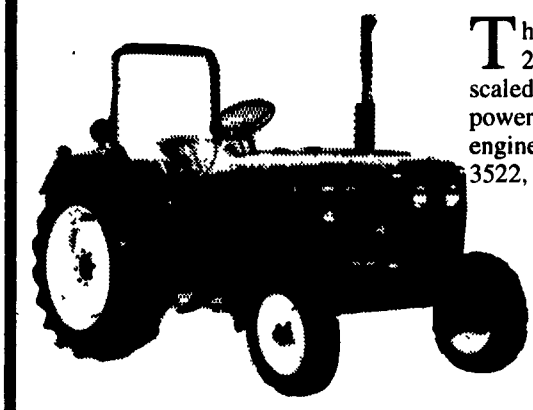
Cut corners on the New Zebra Tractors



The Zebra Tractor Model 2522 is a real tractor scaled down in size, but not in power. Its 25 HP 2 cylinder engine like its big brother the 3522, handles chores a traditional full-size 2 wheel drive tractor handles. For a fraction of the cost. In a fraction of the space.

Zebra tractor model 3522 delivers 35 HP with its 3 cylinder, 143 cu. in. diesel, water-cooled, wet sleeve engine. No toy, this rugged tractor only drives like a sports car.

The 45 HP model 4522 is the Big-boy of the Zebra line of tractors. If the 2522 and 3522 ride like convertibles the 4522 is like a chauffeured limousine, with you at the wheel. So dress for the part, the neighbors are watching.

All Zebra compact tractors are sold and serviced by Zetor Tractors a division of American Jawa, Ltd

The unique Millcreek Row Mulcher eliminates all the hand labor for mulching.

Finally, a practical way to apply organic mulch to row crops

Organic mulch is the natural way to suppress weeds, help retain soil moisture, and improve soil conditions. Trouble is, hand mulching takes too much time and effort. Now the Millcreek Row Mulcher makes it easy and affordable to mulch berries, grapes, fruit trees, and other row crops. One operator can mulch an acre in just a couple hours depending on conditions.

Spread A Variety of Materials, Including Lime

You can spread all types of stemless flowable mulches, such as wood chips, sawdust, chopped bark, even compost, with plenty of clearance to avoid plant damage. Plus, the Millcreek Row Mulcher is ideal for banding lime and other materials requiring lighter applications. The optional metering gate gives you complete control of the coverage so you can tailor applications to best suit your cultivation practices. With the labor-saving versatility you get with the Millcreek Row Mulcher, you may even find new techniques to grow better crops.

For Small Growers
This may be the affordable machine you've been looking for to mulch berries, grapes, and other row crops. Think of the labor you'll save.

For Commercial Growers
Choose from 3.1, 4.5, and 6.8 cubic yard capacities. Or call to discuss your special requirements.

One "Farm-Tough" Machine
With our own farming background, we take great satisfaction in building affordable machines for growers like you who need reliable, trouble-free equipment to help increase production and keep costs down. That's just what the Millcreek Row Mulcher will do for you. Call today.

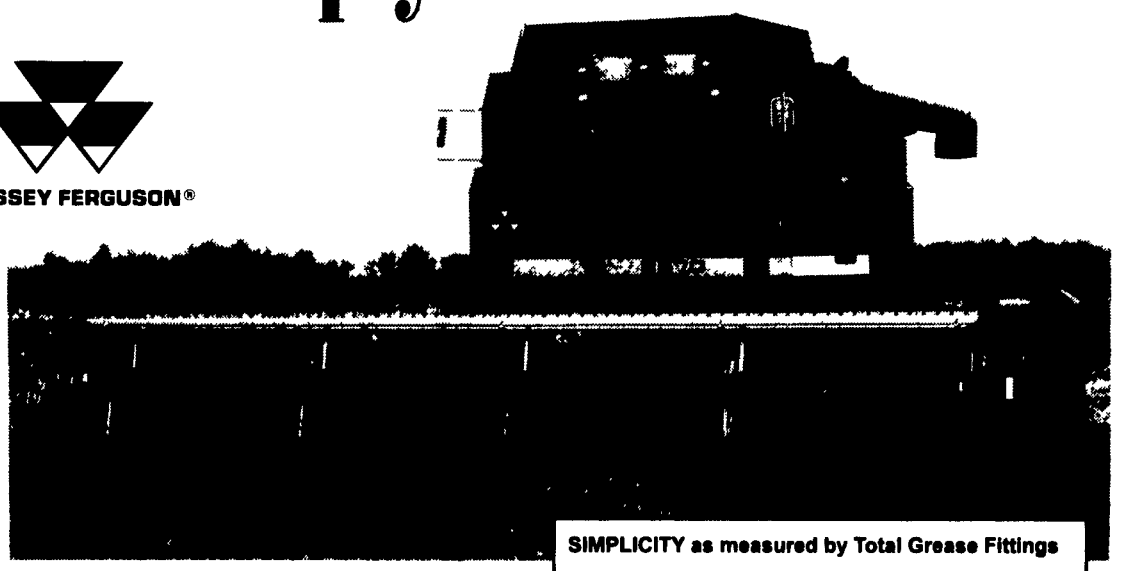
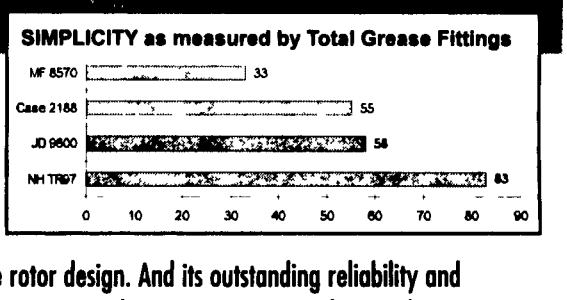
MASSEY FERGUSON®





When time is money and you've got crop to harvest, you need an MF® 8570 Rotary combine.

Its unsurpassed capacity, efficiency and thorough, yet gentle, grain separation comes from an exclusive rotor design. And its outstanding reliability and lower operating costs from its simplicity of design. Just compare the MF 8570 to any other combine. Compare the number of belts, chains, augers, U-joints, variable-speed pulleys and grease fittings.

When you add it all up, nothing comes close to an MF 8570.
Stop in today for more information.

MASSEY FERGUSON®

18/6 Speedshift provides a gear for every operation and clutchless speed changes.
This option for cab and footstep model MF 375, MF 390, MF 390T and MF 399 tractors provides on-the-go speed changes without clutching. All shifts are fully synchronized, even between ranges, for maximum comfort, convenience and productivity.
Engine braking is provided in all gears, and the tractor can be tow started.
The compound shift lever selects desired range with a ratchet-type motion and includes a speedshift control button, so all shifting action is easily controlled with one lever. This single lever is positioned at the operator's right, freeing up the floor area for easy access.
A second speedshift button is located on the right-hand console in cab models. Indicator lights on the dash panel provide easy identification of range and speedshift positions.

The synchronized reverse gear is positioned opposite the first forward gear, providing easy, straightline shuttle shifting.

PURINA PROFILE

ANTHONY'S FEED MILL

Donald, left, and Alan Anthony, the third and fourth generation to serve farmers in the Strausstown area are shown in the scenic setting of their feed mill. The historic water race which powered the mill even before 1800 can be seen on the right.

Four generations at Anthony's Feed Mill, located along Route 183 at Strausstown, have served dairy and poultry farmers in Berks County. As a matter of fact, the original mill was deeded in 1795 and run by water power. The old mill race is still a part of the picturesque setting of Anthony's Mill today.

Donald Anthony now owns the mill. His grandfather William purchased the grist mill, sawmill and farmhouse in 1894. At that time, timber was sawed for canal boats, and flour milling was done for the local citizens. A creamery station was operated until 1905.

Donald's father George purchased the mill in 1926 and developed "Anthony's Balanced Poultry and Dairy Feeds." For a time, they serviced mostly their own family' s poultry and dairy operations. Soon neighbors became customers. In 1979 Donald took over the development of the family business with a larger inventory of feeds, pet supplies, lawn and garden items and crop sprays.

In April of this year, Donald' s son Alan joined the family business to become the fourth generation of the family at the mill.

Over the years, Anthony's Mill had been a dealer for several other lines of feed for short periods of time. By the time Donald took over 16 years ago, Purina emerged as the strongest company supplying the feed industry with a large line of Purina Chows. Donald especially likes the extensive research that Purina has behind all their feeds.

Today, Anthony's serves mostly dairy farmers in a 15 mile radius of the mill. However, a growing number of horse farmers are coming to the mill for custom formulated mixes. In addition, the consumer business for our extensive lines of pet foods and pet related accessories is greatly expanding.

Anthony's Mill has pelleting, crimping, grinding, and mixing capabilities. Along with an extensive supply of feed ingredients and Purina Chows and concentrates, they can fulfill these special customer needs. Of course, they have a Farm Consultant who can develop special feeding programs to meet each farmer's needs.

Now, Anthony's Mill has started to serve the great grandchildren of their original customers, and Donald and Alan look to the future. Alan has brought computer expertise to the business and looks to the growing business in Purina Pet foods and other consumer lines that are increasingly in demand. Together with Purina Chows, the present generations of the Anthony family at the mill believe they have what they need to continue to serve many future

Donald and Alan Anthony find there is a Purina Chow for every customer's need, on the farm or even for exotic and zoo animals.
